ONE KILLED, 21 INJURED

3 Schools Closed In Wake of Bombing

Negro Shot

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—A dynamite blast at a Negro leaders home, detonated racial violence that killed one man and injured at least 21 persons Wednesday night in this strife-ridden southern steel city.

Gunfire crackled for more than an hour in the wake of the bombing at the home of Negro lawyer Arthur Shores on Dynamite Hill, where numerous bombings have occurred in recent years.

A Negro, John L. Coley, 20, was shot to death, three bullets in his head and body.

At least two others were wounded by gunfire. The injured included four policemen hit by bricks or other missiles thrown from crowds of Negroes who gathered in the vicinity of the bombing.

Order was restored by about 150 policemen who quickly poured into the area after the blast. It followed within hours disorders among white segregationists protesting the enrollment of Negroes at white schools.

SCHOOLS CLOSE

Alabama's Governor George Wallace meanwhile took a new tack in the schools issue by announcing early today that the city's board of education had agreed at his request to close temporarily three schools that had been scheduled to be desegregated today. Two Negro boys were enrolled at one of the schools Wednesday.

Constance Baker Motley, a lawyer for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said legal action might be taken today to try to reopen the schools. Wallace's announcement followed a round of conferences that started shortly after the outbreak of violence.

Policemen fired carbines and shotguns over the heads of the yelling, jeering Negroes to disperse them.

Patrolman Warren Wilson's glasses were broken by a brick. Sgt. Herbert Johnson, one of the first on the scene, said he was felled by a brick thrown by Negroes.

One Negro man ran out on a porch and began firing a gun wildly.

Several police cars and two paddy wagons were pelted with shots. Detective Lieut. Maurice House said about two sticks of dynamite, possibly thrown from a car, ripped a crater two feet across and 18 inches deep at the front of the Shores residence.

BOMBING 'SENSELESS'

Shores said the bombing seemed as senseless to him as the one of Aug. 20 when extensive damage was inflicted on the other end of his house.

Today was the first day of classes for two Negro pupils whose enrollment Wednesday began a series of events climaxed by the blast and the ensuing clashes.

Three other Negro pupils were to register and begin classes today at two white high schools.

As the racial fires crackled, there were these developments:

1. Governor Wallace placed 500 to 600 national guardsmen on alert for possible duty in quelling troubles here.

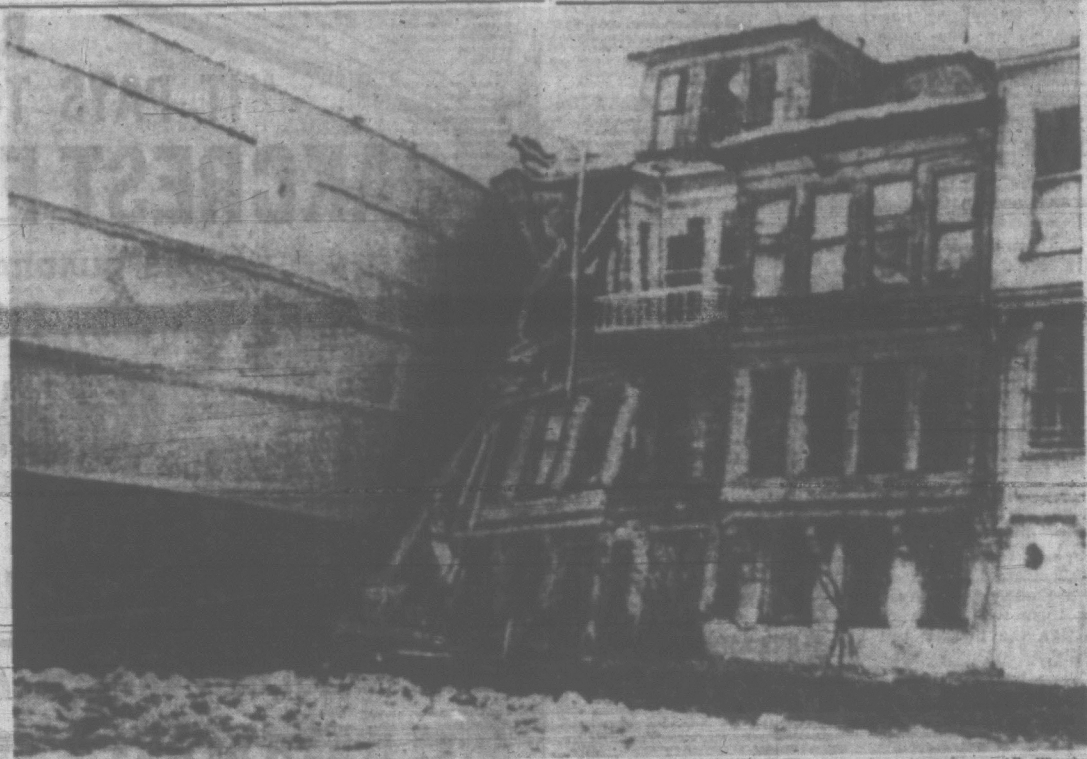

2. About 600 state troopers were on standby in Birmingham but were not requested by local authorities to help keep order in Wednesday.

DISEASE CLAIMS CHILD AS EPIDEMIC SPREADS

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—One more child has died from gastro-enteritis, and there is no definite sign the province's epidemic is letting up, a health department spokesman said today.

Chief Medical Health Officer Dr. David Severs said the single death from the intestinal disease during the week brought the toll for the year to 58. All were infants less than a year old.

Real Drummed Out By National Socreds

'WHAT'S-HIS-NAME' GETS BENNETT NOD

Premier W. A. C. Bennett today fully endorsed Social Credit's national leader—though the name eluded him. Asked to comment on the big Quebec split in the national party, Mr. Bennett said:

"I'm for making greater unity. Not disunity."

"What's-his-name was elected national leader at the national convention, and he's the national leader."

Prompted a newsman: "His name is Robert Thompson."

"That's right," beamed the premier.

He ducked a direct answer to whether he still felt that Real Caouette, who he at one time endorsed for the job, was the greatest Quebec politician since Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

'Social Credit Will Benefit'

EDMONTON (CP)—E. C. Manning, Social Credit premier of Alberta, said today the breakaway of Real Caouette and other Social Credit MPs from the national party "is in the interests of the Social Credit movement."

He said in an interview Caouette's new party—Le Ralliement des Creditistes—is "purely local" and is headed for political extinction. The National Social Credit movement will benefit from being dissociated from Mr. Caouette's "irresponsible statements," he added.

OTTAWA—Quebec Social Credit leader Real Caouette and his supporters today were booted out of the national Socred party.

The action was taken by national Socred president Martin Kellin, who said in a statement issued by Social Credit headquarters here that ejection of "Le Ralliement des Creditistes" was forced on two grounds: rebellion and failure to pay affiliation fees.

The rebellion came into the open last weekend when Quebec Socreds led by Mr. Caouette, former deputy national leader, rejected Robert Thompson as their national leader in resolutions approved at their convention in Granby.

The failure to pay affiliation fees apparently has existed ever since the Quebec wing of the party was taken into the national Socred setup. All other provincial Socred groups, said Mr. Kellin, have paid up.

Will Support Liberal Government

Mr. Caouette indicated that his new group intends for the present to support the Liberal government of Prime Minister Pearson "in the interests of Canada and not against the interest of French Canadians."

"Eventually we will attempt to make this a national party and take it across Canada to protect the French-Canadians in every province," Mr. Caouette said following the four-hour hotel room meeting.

He said his main difference with Mr. Thompson was the latter's "refusal to care anything about the French-Canadian point of view in national politics."

AFRAID

Mr. Caouette also said Mr. Thompson is afraid of being laughed at if he sticks too strongly to Social Credit doctrine. The political philosophy had found a response in Quebec and Mr. Caouette didn't get along with "those who are afraid."

Mr. Caouette said the six Quebec MPs who supported Mr. Thompson would suffer no retaliation. Mr. Gregoire said the fact Mr. Caouette has captured a majority of the MPs means it is "the official Social Credit party in Canada."

In his statement, Mr. Kellin said it was "apparent by the speeches and resolutions at the Granby convention of Le Ralliement des Creditistes as led by Mr. Caouette that Le Ralliement no longer desires affiliation with the Social Credit Association of Canada."

"This is underlined by the fact," Mr. Kellin continued, "that they have rejected the duly elected leader, Mr. Robert Thompson, who was con-

Mr. Kellin's statement was issued in the wake of a Wednesday caucus of a majority of Quebec's 19 Social Credit MPs.

Meeting in Quebec City, Mr. Caouette was assured of the support of at least 11 of the 19. This would appear to put him in the position of qualifying for the extra $4,000 in parliamentary pay given leaders of parties with 12 or more representatives in the Commons, with Mr. Thompson now losing the stipend.

Mr. Thompson apparently has been given the support of six of the Quebec Socreds, plus that of the other three western Socred MPs. One Quebec MP still is apparently undecided as to whom he should support.

Kidnapped S.A. Doctor Released

FRANCISTOWN (Reuters)—Dr. Kenneth Abrahams, a young physician kidnapped last month by South African police, arrived back in Bechuanaland by train today with his wife and three other political refugees.

The 26-year-old colored (mixed blood) physician was expected to join scores of other political refugees from South Africa here who are awaiting transport to Tanganyika.

Dr. Abrahams and his three companions were kidnapped by a masked cattleman and three other men who took them from Bechuanaland, handcuffed them and put them in a cell. After appearing before a magistrate at Gobabis in South-West Africa, they made a plane journey to Cape Town in South Africa.

South Africa denied responsibility for the abduction of the doctor, but after several court appearances, finally released him "in the interests of good neighbor relations."

Was Woman Hitch-Hiking When Killed?

Police Theory After Autopsy

A woman killed in a hit-and-run accident Wednesday may have been trying to hitch a ride from the car that hit her.

Saanich police chief Bert Pearson suggested the theory today, and issued an urgent appeal for the driver of the death car to give himself up.

He said that Mrs. Anna Neilson, 470 Thetis, may have got a ride from town to a point near where she was hit, and perhaps was trying for another at the time of the accident.

This theory would explain: Why she was hit in front, although presumably headed in the same direction as the car that struck her;

Why she was walking on the right side of the highway, instead of the left;

Why she was so close to the travelled portion of the road;

Why she was on the Trans-Canada Highway at all—a somewhat longer route to her home in Belmont Park.

MRS. ANNA NEILSON

Made No Attempt to Stop

The 39-year-old mother of five was almost cut in half by a car that hit her at great speed, and evidently made no attempt to stop—it left no skid marks.

Chief Pearson stressed that the driver, who probably panicked when he realized he had hit the woman, would fare better in court if he turned himself in.

Mrs. Neilson was probably killed at 12:38 a.m., the time at which the hands of her watch stopped, presumably from the impact.

Her body was thrown by the collision into a 20-foot ditch, between Tillicum and Burnside, where it was found by Corporal Bob Peterson of Saanich police when personal papers strewn along the roadside sparked a search.

Saanich police have discovered a motorist who saw Mrs. Neilson at 12:30, minutes before she died, walking along the gravel shoulder of the road about 200 feet east of Tillicum.

She was walking briskly, and was at that time on the left side of the road, facing the oncoming traffic.

Body Yielded Few Clues

Her body, when found, was so badly battered that it was unrecognizable, and police were not sure at first in what direction she had been walking.

An autopsy performed Wednesday morning indicated that she had been facing the car that hit her, that she had been almost sheared in half by a headlight fitting that struck her pelvic region, and that she died instantaneously.

Saanich detectives now know that the death car was painted white, and had a headlight fitting of the kind that is stock on a 1957 Mercury Montclair. Earlier—the police thought a

Chevrolet or Pontiac was involved.

But Chief Pearson said today that the identification of the headlight does not necessarily identify the car, pointing out that customized "hot-rods" often have non-stock parts fitted to them.

A fragment of the headlight and a piece of chrome trim were found at the scene.

An inquest into the death will be held Saturday morning at 11 in the Thomson and Irving funeral home.

Identification of the body and medical evidence only will be presented at that time, Saanich police said today.

She Took Job Recently

Mrs. Neilson, who recently began work at the Colonial Inn as a waitress, met her husband after she quit work at 10 p.m. Tuesday.

They had a few drinks, went for something to eat, then split up due to a family argument. Mrs. Neilson kept the keys to the family car, and her husband went off for a nightcap by himself.

He later went home, expecting his wife to be there.

Saanich police found the car where it had been left, the keys still in the ignition.

Mrs. Neilson had about $40 in her purse, and why she did not drive the car home is still unknown, but Chief Pearson said the fact she had had a few drinks might have been a factor.

Korean Hero's Arrest Stirs Political Storm

SEOUL (AP)—The South Korean military regime's abrupt arrest of ailing ex-premier Yo-Chan Song, a hero of the Korean war, sent his political stock soaring today. One party named him as its candidate for the presidency and others rallied to his cause.

While Song remained in the dreaded Mapo prison, the Liberal Democratic party's central committee met in Seoul and unanimously nominated him to oppose strongman Gen. Chung Hee Park in the presidential election Oct. 15.

Many Koreans suspect Song's surprise arrest Wednesday was

Quake Third Strongest

OTTAWA (CP)—An earthquake that rocked Baffin Bay in the Canadian Arctic Wednesday was the third strongest ever recorded in Canada.

Due to the remote location of the latest earthquake, between Baffin Island and Greenland, no damage was reported.

U.S. Drops Demands On Viet Nam Leaders

SAIGON (UPI)—The United States has decided against pressing demands that South Vietnamese President Ngo Dinh Diem drop his brother and chief political adviser now or face sharp reductions in U.S. aid, high-ranking diplomatic sources said today.

Only a week ago these same sources insisted that the United States had decided it could no longer afford to support a government which included Ngo Dinh Nhu and his wife. Nhu and the fiery Mme. Nhu were considered responsible for the crackdown on South Viet Nam's Buddhists. Mme. Nhu's charges Wednesday of double-dealing by the U.S. already had indicated that the government would not back down under pressure from the U.S.

Mr. Caouette said the six Quebec MPs who supported Mr. Thompson would suffer no retaliation.

Mr. Gregoire said the fact Mr. Caouette has captured a majority of the MPs means it is "the official Social Credit party in Canada."

In his statement, Mr. Kellin said it was "apparent by the speeches and resolutions at the Granby convention of Le Ralliement des Creditistes as led by Mr. Caouette that Le Ralliement no longer desires affiliation with the Social Credit Association of Canada."

'THIS IS WORSE THAN WAR ...'

Plane Crash Orphans Bring In Harvest

(Times News Services) HUMLIKON—Dozens of children orphaned by the crash of a jetliner were working the fields today helping to keep life running smoothly in this peaceful Swiss farming community.

Nineteen couples and five single men—a fifth of Humlikon's population—were among the 80 persons killed when a Swissair Caravelle crashed shortly after taking off from Zurich Wednesday.

The entire village council, a teacher and the chief of the local fire brigade were listed among the dead. The group was on its way to Geneva to visit an experimental farm at the invitation of a firm of pesticide manufacturers.

Though Humlikon's wheat harvest is in, the potatoes and grapes have still to be gathered. So the orphans and surviving adults, who earlier had listened ashen-faced to the radio news of the crash, set to work to keep the farms running.

The tiny hamlet's parish clerk, Jakob Zinkel, said everybody was lending a hand on the farms, "but we must have help with the harvest."

A local pastor said 26 children and 14 youths have lost both parents in the disaster.

Said Gottfried Meisterhans, 28, whose parents perished in the disaster:

"This is terrible. This is worse than war, because it has wiped out virtually a whole generation."

"My parents wanted so badly to make this flight. I would have loved to go too, but my parents thought my wife and I would have more chances to fly. So we agreed that they make the trip."

Rumors circulated that the plane may have been sabotaged after some witnesses said it disintegrated in the air. But chief investigator Col. Karl Hoeger of the Swiss federal air office said evidence collected so far appeared to rule out foul play.

As bayonet-armed soldiers kept a vigil at the site of the disaster, rescue crews continued to search for clues of the crash. Flares flew at half staff in some Swiss communities and radio stations played solemn music.

THIS WORLD OF OURS

People and Things

(Times News Services)

OTTAWA—John Berlinguette, 66, marked his 248th appearance in court today with an offer to the magistrate to leave town.

He faced a drunk charge and police testimony that he was found saluting the National War Memorial in Confederation Square "with a bottle in one hand and a glass in the other."

Magistrate Glenn E. Strike told Berlinguette, "You've appeared before me more than any other man in this court." Berlinguette's record dates to 1908 and includes court appearances in both Canada and the United States, but mostly in Ottawa.

The magistrate noted that the accused once before had offered to leave town but it hadn't worked.

"Oh, yes, I stayed away for 2½ years," replied Berlinguette. He was fined $50 and costs or 30 days in jail.

PHOENIX, Ariz.—Raymond Burr, former New Westminster, B.C. actor, who portrays the unbeatable criminal lawyer Perry Mason on television, lost a case involving a judgment of $1,000 here.

The judgment was to ward George J. Shaheen of Phoenix, who claimed Burr had owed him the money since 1948. Burr filed an answer to the suit instead of hiring a lawyer. Judge Charles C. Siddham ruled the actor did not follow proper procedures and did not appear for a court-ordered deposition last June.

WASHINGTON—You always knew there were sound reasons for looking at a pretty girl's legs, didn't you? Your wife had you all wrong.

Well, the American Automobile Association has come to your aid. The AAA applauds the rising hemlines of women's skirts and calls for more of the same.

The AAA says it's "not blind to the beauty of the fair sex," but the reason it wants as much leg as possible to show is because of traffic safety.

The AAA noted that automobile headlights readily pick up the stockings or bare legs of women pedestrians at night.

"Naturally," the AAA said, "the more stocking or leg exposed the easier it is for motorists to spot and thus prevent an accident."

Sure.

BEL AIR, Md.—The Harford County commissioners repealed a tax Wednesday, but nobody whooped.

The commissioners had never enforced the tax, which was authorized seven years ago on cigars, chewing tobacco and snuff.

They found out cost of collecting it would have been more than the revenue.

VANCOUVER—Mrs. Elizabeth Tom, 40, a social welfare recipient who won a $2,700 automobile in a Pacific National Exhibition draw, has decided to sell the car.

And what's more she expects to return to her skid-road home because, she says, she likes it there.

"I'm going to buy some new winter clothing and I'm going up north to visit my folks right through to Christmas," she said.

BODY DRAGGED ON DECK

Seamen Cried At 'Indignity'

HAMILTON, Ont. (CP)—The captain of the burned Egyptian ship Salah-el-Din bitterly accused Hamilton firemen today of committing a "gross indignity" to the body of a crew member who died in the ship fire Wednesday.

Capt. Abdullah Attia said the firemen had committed the indignity by wrapping the body in "dirty canvas and dragging it along the deck."

"It doesn't matter whether your religion is Moslem, Christian or any other, you don't do that to a body," he said. "A body must be treated with respect."

He said the firemen were dragging the body of chief steward Mohammed Fazawi, 43, along a companionway when crew members saw them.

CRY AT INDIGNITY

"They began to cry at the indignity," Capt. Attia said. "They were very upset by this. My men told the firemen to leave the body alone, that they would handle it. They had never seen such a thing."

He said the crew members wrapped the body in a clean blanket and carried it ashore.

"What my men did had nothing to do with religion, or a sailing tradition," he said. "A human body should be treated with respect."

Fire Chief Reg. Swanborough denied the accusations.

"The man was obviously dead and that's the usual procedure,"

Fazawi was the only one killed in the fire in the $1,183-ton freighter. It was contained by firemen before it reached a small cargo of explosives stored forward.

The vessel remained afloat, but was estimated at $500,000. The blaze was believed to have started by faulty wiring.

Officials said Fazawi's body will be flown back to Egypt for burial and the other 77 crew members will be sent home by ship or by air.

Eight sailors, treated in hospital for shock and minor injuries, joined their shipmates today.

Anti-Test Protests Irk French Leaders

PARIS (AP)—The French government today protested against what it called systematic campaigns by the Australian, New Zealand, Chilean and Peruvian governments against the prospect of French nuclear testing in the South Pacific.

Responsible sources said the French ambassadors to the four governments had warned that a continuation of "such a discriminatory attitude toward France" could threaten the friendly relations of these countries with France.

France is constructing a nuclear testing ground on the atoll of Mururoa in the Polynesian group of islands in the South Pacific. Reliable sources have indicated no French test is planned in the next two years.

President de Gaulle has said that France, which is still in the process of developing its nuclear arsenal, will not sign the limited test-ban treaty, which calls for a halt to all except underground explosions.

His car hurtled off the Upper Levels Highway in North Vancouver and, still moving at high speed, it leaped a three-foot ditch, mounted 300 feet up a 30-degree grass slope to the divided highway's west-bound lanes, then flipped end over end four times.

Former City Man Killed On Mainland

A former Victoria shipyard welder died in Vancouver yesterday after being pinned beneath the burning wreckage of his crashed car.

Daniel George Robinson, 23, was dead on arrival at Lions Gate Hospital.

His car hurtled off the Upper Levels Highway in North Vancouver and, still moving at high speed, it leaped a three-foot ditch, mounted 300 feet up a 30-degree grass slope to the divided highway's west-bound lanes, then flipped end over end four times.

The vehicle then rammed a road divider and bounced in the air, hurling Robinson to the ground, and fell on top of him.

Police said Robinson was not wearing his seat belt.

Common Names Urged

OTTAWA (CP)—The United Nations will be asked to set up a committee of experts to devise universal names for space ships, parts of planets and other features of outer space, it was announced today.

Prof. Jaroslav B. Rudnycky of the University of Manitoba, who is in Ottawa to attend a meeting of the "royal commission on bilingualism," said in a statement that the request will be made by the International Congress of Onomastic Sciences.

The congress, which endeavors to standardize names for new scientific discoveries, passed a resolution to that effect at its meeting last week in Amsterdam.

The congress will ask all countries exploring outer space to agree on common names for their discoveries, without applying English, Russian, Japanese and other names to the same objects.

The proposal was put forward by Canadian and American delegates at the scientific congress. The Canadian delegation included Prof. J. Rudnycky, Prof. O. Starchuk and Prof. Y. Slavutych of the University of Alberta.

3. Six white parents asked a federal judge for an injunction against integration of the schools because of violence. District Judge Walter P. Gavin of nearby Tuscaloosa took the petition under advisement. Wallace said his office helped prepare the suit.

4. In Huntsville, Ala., 12 white children quietly desegregated a previously Negro school operated by the Roman Catholic church. It was the first known integration of an elementary school in Alabama.

5. In Washington, Attorney-General Robert F. Kennedy met with aides for several strategy sessions. A justice department spokesman said FBI agents and other department personnel already on the scene in Birmingham would be made available to local authorities if requested.

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (CP)—The state of emergency imposed May 8 on British Guiana in the wake of violence in a general strike was lifted Wednesday by Governor Sir Ralph Grey. The state of emergency was lifted 60 days after the strike ended. It had been imposed on the strike's 19th day.

Russians Picket Chinese

MOSCOW (AP)—A Chinese Embassy spokesman said today Russians demonstrated in front of the Embassy earlier this week.

He refused to give details, saying "everything has been reported by our radio and newspapers."

Peking radio said Wednesday night more than 20 Soviet citizens picketed the Embassy Monday, shaking their fists and chanting:

"We do not want to die," "shame on the Chinese" and "shame, shame, shame."

The Embassy spokesman said he did not know whether the protesters would be sent to the Soviet foreign ministry.

Last June, several Russians smashed an Embassy glass display case showing propaganda pictures from China.

The smashing signalled a sharp deterioration of Soviet-Chinese relations. At the same time, three Chinese diplomats were expelled from the Soviet Union for distributing "anti-Soviet" literature.

Peking radio said Monday's demonstrators also argued with Embassy personnel, asking them why China refuses to sign the nuclear test ban treaty.

There has been no mention in the Soviet press of the demonstration.

effectiveness of the limited nuclear test-ban treaty until the Soviets removed their military forces from Cuba.

Goldwater, regarded as a potential candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, said he would offer such a reservation after the Senate takes up the treaty next week.

If the Senate adopts a formal reservation, it might require renegotiation of the treaty. The Senate foreign relations committee voted 16 to 1 last week to recommend ratification without any reservation.

POTENTIAL PERIL

In a speech prepared for the Senate, Goldwater declared that as it now stands, the treaty "is a potential peril to peace rather than a step toward it."

Goldwater has been a frequent critic of the treaty, but administration forces say they are confident the Senate will approve the pact overwhelmingly.

Goldwater told his colleagues: "The reservation in which I am interested and which I shall introduce and press for as a reasonable condition for acceptance of the treaty in essence is this:

"That the effectiveness of the treaty be deferred until the U.S.S.R. has removed all nuclear weapons, all weapons capable of carrying nuclear warheads, and all military-technical personnel from Cuba and until arrangements have been made for international inspection within Cuba to determine and confirm such removal."

Study Teacher To Help Marks

By The Reading Laboratory

So far, we've been discussing the ways in which you should accommodate yourself to your courses—how to develop a constructive attitude toward school and how to pinpoint the purposes behind each course. But for every course you take, you also take a teacher, and until teaching machines take over the class room, it's important to study your teacher.

The old cliché says, "If you can't fight 'em, join 'em," and since there's no point in working at cross-purposes with your teacher (he marks you), learn how to work with him. Working with a teacher is not the same as apple-polishing. You have to work with people all your life; start making a science of it.

Here are the major things to look for when studying a teacher:

- What part of the course does he like best? What part does he like least? Watch out for small points that your teacher spends a lot of time on—he likes those points. They may be on a test. If you catch your teacher supplying a lot of seemingly unimportant background material make sure you learn that "seemingly unimportant" material. If you can give it back on a test, your mark may soar.
- Does he like argument in the class room? (Not fights, of course, but intelligent discussion of both sides of a problem.) Some teachers don't—usually because they are pressed for time. But try yours out. Bring up a question that contradicts one of his own statements. If he likes it, do it again. If he doesn't, it may be best to keep quiet when you disagree. There's no point in irritating him.
- Does he mark for class participation, or does he just count tests? This will usually depend on the size of his class; the best way to find out is to ask your teacher. If he marks for class participation, whenever you feel you have something to say, say it!
- Does he like to give pop quizzes? If he does you'll have to prepare for class every day. Whenever possible, check for this with older students who have already had your teacher.
- What kind of tests does he give? Essay questions? True-false? Multiple choice? What kind of answers does he like? Good understanding of main idea? Tiny details? You'll have to adjust your studying to his tests; it can save you a lot of unnecessary work. You can check this out with older students.
- See if he has "good days" and "bad days." Mondays are just as rough on teachers as they are on you. Don't go out of your way to give your teacher a hard time on his bad days.
- Make a private appointment with your teacher. It can be helpful to both of you. He'll be glad to see you but be sure you have something specific that you want to talk over; he may not have time for just small talk.

On Sept. 16, Mr. Strachan will speak in either Delta or Dewdney riding.

Sept. 17 he will be in Prince George. On the 19th he will speak at Prince Rupert.

He will wind up a western tour at Kitimat on Sept. 20. Mr. Strachan said he will spend the final week of the campaign mostly on Vancouver Island.

He will speak at Ladysmith, Sept. 21; Comox, Sept. 23; Alberni, Sept. 24; Duncan, Sept. 25; go to Vancouver on the 26th; hold a final rally on Sept. 27 at an unnamed location, and finish his personal campaign at Lake Cowichan Sept. 28.

Four Greater Victoria provincial election candidates were picked Wednesday night and one wasn't.

The New Democrats, Social Credit and Liberals named candidates for Esquimalt, Oak Bay and Saanich.

The Conservative nominating convention for Esquimalt dissolved in confusion when it was unable to find a candidate. Those nominated: Geoffrey Mitchell, NDP, Esquimalt; Dr. Charles Ennals, Social Credit, Oak Bay; John Windsor, NDP, Saanich, and Ian Stewart, Liberal, Saanich.

Tories Meet Again

The Tory convention was re-scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

Seventeen voting delegates and 10 onlookers arrived at Fraser Hall Wednesday night. Esquimalt councillor Bert Nelson, who everyone expected to be the candidate, turned down the job. "I feel I can better serve my community at the present time in my present position," he said.

The biggest nominating meeting was at Oak Bay Municipal Hall, where 100 Socials turned out to give unanimous support to Dr. Ennals.

Premier Bennett telephoned the 26-year-old doctor to congratulate him immediately afterwards.

Born at Duncan

Dr. Ennals is married and lives at 2561 Bermuda Place. He was born at Duncan, educated at Victoria College, and graduated from UBC. He is also president of the national young people's Social Credit party.

Dr. Ennals branded the NDP medicare program "a red herring." He said it was an irresponsible and impractical plan. "There isn't a study in B.C. today to show Strachan's figures even approach a realistic estimate. Costs for the first year would amount to more than $110,000,000 and jump by 20 per cent the following year."

Dr. Ennals said that as a recent UBC graduate he was "as conversant with problems of the university as anyone."

Unanimous Choice

Mr. Stewart, a husky lawyer who once played professional football for B.C. Lions, was the unanimous choice of 52 Liberals at St. Martin's Church Hall.

He played linebacker for the Lions in 1957 and 1958.

"I intend to restrict my personal platform to municipal needs," he declared. "Premier Bennett can stick to power and contingent liabilities, but the member for Saanich should be primarily concerned with municipal affairs."

Mr. Stewart charged that Saanich is not getting its fair share of tax revenues from the provincial government. Its previous MLA, Sorel John Fisdale, has done nothing to help solve some of the area's most pressing local problems, he said.

Discontent Cited

He cited the discontent among ferry crews, development of Patricia Bay Highway, and "the intrusion" of the attorney-general's department into Saanich's new police offices by setting up a metropolitan magistrates' court there with Saanich footing the bill.

Born in China, Mr. Stewart grew up in Vancouver, went to UBC, and came here to practice law. He founded the Victoria Touchdown Club, coaches the Victoria Hornets junior football team, and is president of the local bantam football league.

The NDP had a double-barrelled convention at Douglas Hall where 52 persons upstairs chose blind author Windsor as Saanich candidate and 48 in the basement picked farmer Mitchell to run in Esquimalt.

Mr. Mitchell promised that if elected he will make it a full-time job.

Support Growing

"Our voting record in Esquimalt shows an upward trend," Mr. Mitchell told his enthusiastic supporters, "and with hard work from you, this seat will

A NEW BROOM

SALMON ARM—Mr. Bennett has been Premier 11 years. He first took that office at a time when our provincial affairs were in confusion. Looking back to the events of that time, it was perhaps good that his new broom was elected.

We have since seen three Mr. Bennetts. The first, the Mr. Bennett of 1952, seemed a man of honor, honesty and reform. That man is no more. The Premier has violated our constitution; his word is no longer relied on.

The second Mr. Bennett seemed the guardian of free enterprise. He promised to keep "hands off" B.C. Electric. He promised to bring investment. That man has disappeared. B.C. Electric is seized. Investment is frightened away.

Today we have the last Mr. Bennett. His only claim now is that "he gets things done." True, he gets some things done. But are they things we want? Do we want seizure of industry? Do we want investment scared away? Do we want this fantastic confusion of power policies?

And what about the things he doesn't get done? What about improvements in education? What about development of industry and jobs? What about tax relief?

It would seem that the big problems of British Columbia are too big for Mr. Bennett and his "little government." He doesn't solve our problems; he creates new ones. Our Provincial affairs are again in confusion.

It is time to change to a government able to handle these big problems. Some of the best men in this province have joined my campaign for good government. We can do what must be done.

After 11 years, B.C. needs another new broom.

Bigger, Bigger, Bigger Dream

IN A RECENT ARTICLE IN THE Ottawa Citizen, Mr. Christopher Young calls Mr. Bennett "just about the slickest political operator now at large in the country."

Many will agree. The record lends substantiation. But is slickness enough? Are political operations a substitute for statesmanship?

Mr. Bennett has mastered the technique of the Big Dream, whereby a Big Dream which fails is superseded by a still bigger one. He calls forth a new political Phoenix from the cold ashes of successive fires, and if sometimes his bird gives a most unphoenix-like "Quack," and lays an egg, this does not deter him. Mr. Bennett believes that any sound is better than no sound at all.

Some voters may have become bemused by admiration for Mr. Bennett's technical skill as a politician, his efficiency in the art of keeping himself and his party in power. But this undoubted capability has been bolstered by more than a decade of prosperity in the province—prosperity which is not the result of Mr. Bennett's policies but a support, a cushion upon which all his bad gambles could fall with a barely perceptible lull.

The vast Wenner-Gren empire of the north with its new city of 30,000 wasn't it?—focusing industrial development: what became of it? Nothing. Yet Mr. Bennett was able to divert public attention from this fiasco by introducing his "two rivers policy" and the hydro take-over.

Now we have millions of public money committed to the Peace River project but still no assurance of further financing, of markets or of costs.

In the midst of this came Mr. Bennett's resounding defeat in the hydro court case. Surely it is a shattering experience for a premier to have his greatest industrial venture declared null and void, his chief utility declared non-existent?

Anybody Home?

THE WILDCAT STRIKE OF B.C.

Toll Authority Ferry System crews working the ships between Nanaimo and Horseshoe Bay Tuesday should never have occurred. The general public was inconvenienced and scores of tourists were given a poor impression of travel facilities in the province simply because the ferry system management was seemingly unaware of a grievance over working conditions which had been building up for almost a month.

The astonishing thing about this apparent unawareness of the situation is that it had been a matter of general knowledge among all employees of the system as well as many members of the general public for several weeks. Why was the top management the last to know about it?

Even more inexplicable is the fact that Premier Bennett was given a direct warning by letter from Mr. E. P. O'Connor, secretary of the B.C. Government Employees' Association, that trouble was brewing. The premier, who in the past has taken more than a casual interest in the service which he created, lamely explained that he hadn't seen the letter but "it may be in my office."

The public is entitled to wonder how closely in touch with day-to-day operations the ferry system management is. Manager Monty Aldous was present when the first intimations of trouble were being heard. He appears to have been away, however, until the strike erupted, when assistant manager Ronald Worley was in charge. Mr. Worley was accompanying the premier on his tour of England during the early stages of the trouble, irrelevant as that tour seems to be to his duties with the ferry service.

One wonders if the two senior officials of the ferry service who, as Labor Minister Peterson noted, should have been aware of the employees' discontent, have been paying close enough attention to the business of the public on whose payroll they have been placed.

This strike incident, coming so soon after the scandal in Nanaimo where an obvious attempt was made to hush up theft of money from the ferry system, is enough to make the public wonder if the management is as good as it should be in view of the millions of dollars invested and the public's dependence on the service.

Slickness is never a final answer.

He Worked for Unity

A CHAPTER OF HISTORY HAS closed with the death at 77 of Robert Schuman—a man who saw his lifetime endeavor capped with establishment of the European coal and steel pool and then carried still further through creation of the European Common Market.

A native of Luxembourg, a citizen first of Germany and then France when Lorraine changed hands, he lived through two wars which twice saw his two adopted countries at each other's throats.

It was an unpromising background against which to build a pool of resources requiring close international trust and co-operation. Yet Schuman saw the need and he set to work. The Schuman Plan became one of the great hopes of post-war Europe and its unyielding in 1950 set the pace for much of the unified effort which has marked the continent since.

Through the Plan, West Germany, France, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg organized their production and marketing of coal and steel in common. The success of the venture opened the way to the European Economic Community and the Common Market of today.

These were great concepts; it took a man of great vision to see them as practical possibilities, a man of great ability to force them toward reality.

As few men did, Robert Schuman grasped the dangers and the opportunities inherent in the Europe of his age, and he had the skill and the courage to give life to his dream.

Why Is There No Action?

EVEN THE MOST CASUAL OBSERVER of the sky over Victoria—and particularly during the past six months—cannot fail to have been seriously disturbed by the heavy pall of smoke which emanates from several sawmill burners and smokestacks and drifts northward or southward with the prevailing wind.

There have been some days when driving along North Douglas Street has been akin to driving through a heavy winter fog as a result of the smoke. The fall-out of soot and fly-ash along the smoke path is great enough to be termed a filthy nuisance by motel operators, businessmen and residents of private homes.

There is no need for this situation to continue. Other cities have managed to overcome the smoke problem and Victoria can do the same. Major offenders have been warned innumerable times and yet have done little to abate the nuisance. The time has come, as was suggested at this week's meeting of the Metropolitan Health Board, to get tough and test the city smoke bylaw in the courts.

"... Here's an odd one, Ron ... Something about some sailors wanting to strike the other day ... I've never hear anything about that ..."

FROM WASHINGTON

By WALTER LIPPMANN

Choice: Settlement or War of Attrition

SINCE South Viet Nam is fogged in by censorship and propaganda, it is impossible to know for sure whether there is in fact a great crisis. President Diem and his family have certainly made themselves violently disliked in the Buddhist countries of Asia, and indeed all over the world. But at this distance we do not know whether their power, such as it has been, to rule the country is substantially less than it used to be. For their power does not rest upon popularity and election but upon force, patronage, corruption and intrigue. While their will to wage the guerrilla war has never been strong, there is nothing to show that there is any decided change.

There is, it would seem, some confirmation for this view in the varying reports last week about the administration's line of policy towards Diem and his family.

Second Thought

At first it was that they must be made to go by withholding American aid until a junta of army generals overthrew them. But on second thought, presumably as a result of reports from Saigon, the line was changed to one of living with Diem and trying to reform him by diplomacy.

The second thoughts were more realistic than the first, not because there is much chance of reforming the Diem government, but because a government of Vietnamese generals, installed by the United States, would hardly be better or more popular than Diem, and might well be worse.

And so, since we cannot reform the Diem government, since we cannot replace it, and since we cannot abandon it, we have to put up with it for the time being.

How long, we ask ourselves, might that be? Long enough, I suppose, for a change to take place in the complex balance of forces in southeast Asia. As of now, at least, there is a military and political stalemate in the whole region. None of the powers involved has the military and political strength to impose, or to bring about the negotiation of, a settlement that all could live with.

Lost Control

Thus the Soviet Union, which we have been regarding as the principal power in Indo-China, has manifestly lost control and influence. It could not now, even if it wished, settle the Vietnamese war.

The power of Red China hangs over northern Indo-China, feeds the guerrilla war, and stands in the way of a negotiated settlement. But Red China, which covets the riches of Indo-China, is held in check by the knowledge that overt expansion will provoke the sea and air power of the United States.

General de Gaulle's intervention has behind it little material force. There is some French influence which remains from the old days, and there is a large cultural connection with France. But there is no military power and little economic power.

Yet, General de Gaulle's action has moral force which adheres to him because he may well have reduced the formula to the only possible settlement for the future of Indo-China. An indeterminate number of people in Indo-China and in the rest of the world may think this to be the truth.

Ultimate Objective

However annoying, General de Gaulle may be right that the ultimate objective of policy, though enormously difficult to attain, is a reunited, independent and neutral Viet Nam. No other kind of settlement is possible.

We shall not permit a Chinese conquest of Indo-China. The Chinese will not submit to an American-supported conquest of North Viet Nam. If there is no settlement such as General de Gaulle proposes, then a protracted and indecisive war of attrition is all that is left. I see no reason why the administration should resent the President of France speaking about the pacification of what used to be French Indo-China. The French must know some things that we, who are newcomers and novices in the region, do not know.

They have been present in Indo-China for a generation. They have educated the leaders of Viet Nam. They have built its cities. And they have fought a long and difficult war and have tasted the bitterness of defeat.

We should welcome the advice of the French and, since there is no possibility that they can restore their old colonial empire, we should welcome their help.

DR. MARTIN LUTHER KING

By MAX FREEDMAN

Until Then His Voice Will Fill the Land

I OWE an obligation to my conscience to write about the great Negro march in Washington last week. This event cannot be judged by the ordinary rules of journalism which bid us comment on the immediate news. The afterglow of this demonstration will be with us for a long time to come, and its deeper meaning will be explored by the historians. The wisest man I have been privileged to know, or am ever likely to know, has correctly described the march as an "Epic of Democracy." That is the proper spirit in which to measure its worth.

Like countless others, I wished the march every success but dreaded the risks which it raised. In such a multitude it would take only a small spark to kindle a flame of hatred and violence. As all the world knows, the march and demonstration were triumphs of Democracy in action.

But it is just not good enough to record this fact with a sense of relief or as a form of routine praise. The character of the march is a golden fact that cannot be tarnished by the mean little arts of the critics.

Dr. Martin Luther King praised the marchers for their dignity and discipline. In this tribute he fell below the height of the achievement. For their dignity was won through self-discipline. Most of the police officers could have gone on holiday and there still would have been no ugly splash of violence.

Worth Remembering

This fact is worth remembering, for every suffering minority deserves to be honored for its achievements instead of being censured for its failures. When next we read of fighting in the streets and there will be many such episodes—let us have the grace, before we condemn the Negro demonstrators, to ask ourselves if it is not possible that some brutal local official goaded them into violence or provoked them into disorder. The Negroes are not always to blame, especially when they are blamed quickly and harshly.

If the march had been a failure, if it had been small in numbers, nasty in temper, and violent in action, would we ever have been allowed to forget this disaster? Why are our memories so tenacious of lament and so forgetful of idealism? Is this really fair to ourselves or to the Negro?

There is another test from which we dare not shrink. Would the segregationists in America, in the North as in the South, like to stage a similar demonstration and place their values against those of the Negro for the impartial judgment of the American people?

Let us be candid and fair. The segregationists could easily organize a march of 200,000 Americans on Washington. Not all these men and women would be bigots or fanatics or extremists. Many of them would be citizens of honor and distinction. But what ease could they make in the clear light of day in defence of imposed and compulsory segregation?

What arguments could they use to satisfy the reason of the broad mass of the American people? What appeal could they offer to the conscience of America? Until they can answer these questions, they would be wise to avoid any competition with Dr. Martin Luther King.

American Dream

For Dr. King has the outraged majesty of the American dream on his side and they have only the nightmare of racial discrimination. He speaks with matchless eloquence of the wrongs of Negroes and we wish to give them the rights of Americans. Not a snarling word of bitterness fell from his impassioned lips. Gandhi certainly would have approved. So would Lincoln and Jefferson.

His allies are the agonies and exultations of the human spirit, and the invincible mind of man reaching forever forward to freedom and equality. Are there enough jails in the United States to break this cause?

Gladstone said eloquence consists in drawing inspiration from the audience as in a vapor and pouring it back in a flood. Dr. King is that kind of supreme orator, a type so rare as almost to be forgotten in our age. But he is the master of words precisely because he is the servant of his cause.

Grant Justice

If the South wants to stop Dr. King's eloquence, let it grant justice to the Negro. Until then his voice will fill the land and Americans of all races and creeds will respond.

For "the time is at hand, the spirit is gone forth, the declaration is planted; and though great men should apostatize, yet the cause will live; and though the public speaker should die, yet the immortal fire shall outlast the organ which conveyed it, and the breath of liberty, like the word of the holy man, will not die with the prophet, but survive him."

BELGRADE:

Khrushchev And Tito

By KATHARINE CLARK

THE most important factor for the United States and West that emerged from Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's visit to Yugoslavia was a rather definite indication that the Kremlin now intends to follow its rapprochement with President Tito and a new rapprochement with the West.

The Soviet initiatives that can be expected were an integral part of his meetings with Tito but did not come out in any formal announcements or communiqués.

They developed instead in the Russian leader's speeches, and off the cuff remarks, made in his barnstorming tour of Yugoslavia.

Khrushchev said many times that he sought co-existence, deplored war, and did not believe in pressures. He said it so much that it became repetitious.

The importance, however, of this duplication lay in its tone. It was always modest, restrained and showed a readiness, if not an eagerness, to negotiate with the West. And it appeared he would take the initiative.

Broadly, his forthcoming moves designed to ease tension apparently were, and about in this order:

- Discussions bilaterally and in the U.N. about a non-aggression pact between NATO and the Warsaw pact countries, or at least unilateral statements of non-aggression by all countries involved.

- Efforts for a moratorium on underground tests;

- Nuclear free zones, a freeze on military build-ups, and steps to prevent surprise attacks.

Partial Agreements

Khrushchev indicated he wanted to use the better political climate for further agreements even if those agreements should be partial in nature, like the partial test ban treaty.

These impending moves, however, are obviously not the result of any new era of good feeling or any second spirit of Geneva or Camp David.

They result from strictly pragmatic assessment by the two men of factors attendant on the great conflict of their time — the Sino-Soviet split. There were no signs of real friendship with the West being sought, only a truce of sorts.

Both Russians and Yugoslavs here during this visit have pointed out that to a very great degree the final break with Red China has relieved the Soviet Union, that no more tactical concessions to Peking — which often took the form of attacks on the West — are now necessary, and the Soviet Union is now free to negotiate without hindrance with the West.

Future Soviet tactics toward the underdeveloped nations and in the United Nations also became more readable as the Khrushchev trip drew to its close.

It appears obvious now that Khrushchev recognizes the importance of the underdeveloped nations not just because he is concerned over Peking's efforts to lead them but because he now views them as "natural potential allies" of the Kremlin.

In the international trade conference, next April in Geneva, the Soviet Union can be expected to concentrate on trade between "haves" and "have nots," rather than trade between East and West.

Of course, the importance of the non-aligned nations to the Soviet Union is that they are a device in the struggle with Peking.

It appears very certain here that there will be no out-and-out formal break on the part of the Soviets with the Chinese; no severance of diplomatic relations.

Instead, the Soviet Union will make every effort in its contacts with non-aligned nations to explain its policy and interpret, in its view, the policy of Peking.

In the United Nations, Soviet tactics will work for an increase in the size of the security council without insisting first on the admission of Red China.

Continued Support

Moscow will continue to support Peking's admission but will give priority to expansion of the security council and the social and economic council. This will be done to satisfy the desires of the Afro-Asian and Latin American nations.

Tito is responsible for much of this new approach by Khrushchev. He recommended it and Khrushchev accepted most of his suggestions. In the course of this, future Soviet-Yugoslav association was also clarified.

For their part, the Yugoslavs have agreed and are pleased to agree to an increase of relations in all fields, economic, cultural and on the party level. There will also be an exchange of information and consultation on internal affairs.

Increase of party relations will, at first, consist chiefly of a step-up in exchange of visits of Communist organizations.

A Soviet parliamentary delegation will come to Belgrade soon and two Yugoslav missions, one from the ministry of health and one from the ministry of defence, will travel to Moscow in September.

This is only the beginning and it will take time to learn how far this rapprochement will be extended.

BASIC NEED

Rites and ceremonies and customs must grow organically from the people themselves. Without rites and ceremonies and customs, the people are not a community at all. They are either just people, or people under authority; and there are limits to what authority can do to weld, "just people" into healthy, developing communities.

—ROBERT MARGHERITA LARSEN

Gerald Waring ...REPORTING

OTTAWA—Of the several ways we in this country might try to counteract the depressing economic effects of the "Kennedy tax," perhaps the least painful would be an identical Canadian tax.

The idea came to me as I mulled over the Kennedy move, and I tried it for size on E. J. "Ben" Benson, the Liberal MP for Kingston, Ont., who is Finance Minister Gordon's parliamentary secretary. Mr. Benson, a CA who lectures in taxation at Queen's, told me that he too had been thinking along the same lines.

The proposal is not one of retaliation in a vindictive sense. It is simply recognition that a tax policy which will have a certain advantage for the U.S. on one score would, if adopted by Canada as well, have a certain advantage for this country on another score.

The Kennedy tax on U.S. investment in foreign securities is designed to discourage such investment, and thus reduce the drain on U.S. gold reserves. The effect on Canada is to reduce U.S. capital investment in Canada, and so it becomes incumbent upon Canada to find other capital to take up the investment slack. A Canadian tax on Canadian investment in foreign securities would discourage such investment, and thus increase the amount of Canadian capital available for investment in Canada.

The American concern that gave rise to the Kennedy tax is over the U.S. deficit in international payments which represents a charge on U.S. gold reserves. But our concern over the American action is even more basic. New capital investment governs economic growth which governs the availability of jobs for our rising population.

If the Americans are going to keep their dollars at home to serve their national ends, then perhaps we should keep our dollars at home to serve ours.

I can almost hear you say, "What dollars?" because that's what I asked myself until I got a rundown from the Bank of Canada on what our private security purchases from the U.S. amount to. Then the idea of a Canadian tax became much more intriguing.

In the first four months, January to May, Canadians sold $358 millions worth of stocks and bonds to Americans.

In the same period Americans sold $363 millions worth of stocks and bonds to Canadians.

So despite the popular impression that investment money flows only one way, south to north, the Americans actually took $5 millions more out of Canada than they put in here in this bilateral securities trading.

Mind you, these figures are a mixed bag, representing trade back and forth in Canadian and U.S. stocks, Canadian and U.S. bonds, and repurchases of Canadian securities by Americans. Moreover there was a substantial amount of money flowing across the border, mainly northward, for direct investment in U.S. subsidiaries that would not necessarily show up as securities transactions.

Of course, if the Americans stop buying our securities we're not going to have as much money to spend on theirs, and to that extent a projection of these figures would be misleading. Even complete diversion of the Canadian end of this trade to domestic investment won't give us the $1 billion a year indicated by the four-month figures. But every little million helps.

Time to Assess May's Hopes

Early September is a suitable time for assessing the value of the summer flowering annuals, those plants which were set out during May with high hopes of the masses of color they would provide.

I would say from observation that the hopes of most gardeners were fulfilled, for in spite of the moderate temperatures at times, the annuals were no later coming into bloom and they are certainly lasting well in fine condition.

The exception could possibly be the red salvia in some gardens, though we ourselves had it in bloom before the last day of May from a February 20 sowing indoors.

Petunias have been as splashy and gorgeous as ever. One planting of red and purple was particularly lovely seen on a tan-colored house.

In color mixtures, candytuft in flat round heads each the size of a 50 cent piece was good, and slender viscaria in dainty shades of rose, blue, white and a few red drew much attention. Neither lasted longer than six or seven weeks at the most, but were well worth while as fillers.

One annual which made a remarkable recovery from being allowed to remain in a flat too long, was a blue form of salvia, known as S. horminum Blue Bird. We have grown it in previous years and enjoyed the dark purple-blue flower spikes.

This year the young plants each had one spike in bloom while still in flats, but no side growths because of being crowded and perhaps dry at spike, nothing happened for several weeks, but now each plant is making a fine showing of 10 spikes apiece.

Making its debut in gardens this year is Thumbellina, the compact dwarf zinnia for edging. The plants are certainly living up to the advance notices, giving quantities of brilliant bloom on short stems. The old flowers are covered over by the new ones, so that a fresh appearance is maintained at all times.

African marigolds are tops still where bold masses of yellow and orange are required over a long period. The Climax strains have always been good with large blooms completely globular, but this year we received advance trial seeds of a new strain named Doublebloom which was to excel all others.

A pleasing soft yellow, huge perfectly rounded blooms like grapefruit, plants four feet high and as much across, and a pleasant rose-like perfume instead of the rather pungent marigold odor—these are some of the attributes of Doublebloom.

Look for it next year, when it will be a new thing out for gardeners to enjoy.

Car Crashes Send Five To Hospital

Five persons were taken to hospital after two auto accidents Tuesday afternoon but none were seriously injured. Two passengers in a taxi driven by John Isherwood, 426 Pat Bay Highway, received treatment for shock after their vehicle was in collision with a car driven by Murray Nixon of Sooke.

The passengers were Mrs. Rita Christiansen, 993 Tolmie, and 11-year-old Elizabeth Christiansen. Both Murray Nixon and his father, Robert, a passenger in his car, were also taken to hospital for treatment of neck injuries. All were released after treatment.

The accident occurred at Quadra and Bay.

Frank Easton, 41, of 1561 Oak Crest, was treated for forehead cuts after being involved in an accident at Johnson and Quadra.

A car driven by Bruce Kricklock of HMCS Mackenzie was in collision with Mr. Easton's vehicle. Mr. Easton's car then in turn was in collision with a

Vandals Run Wild

DANVILLE, Que. (CP)—Paint-brush-wielding vandals ran wild Saturday throughout this town, 35 miles north of Sherbrooke, defacing three Protestant churches, painting out English portions of municipal signs and daubing the letters FLQ on doors of private homes, garages and cars.

Douk Brands 'Sons' As Publicity Hungry

NELSON (CP)—A Doukhor said last week that the Sons of Freedom branch of his sect is publicity hungry for political purposes and power.

Kozma Tarasoff of Blaine, Sask., was speaking at a western civilization seminar at Notre Dame University here.

He said there are three divisions of the sect.

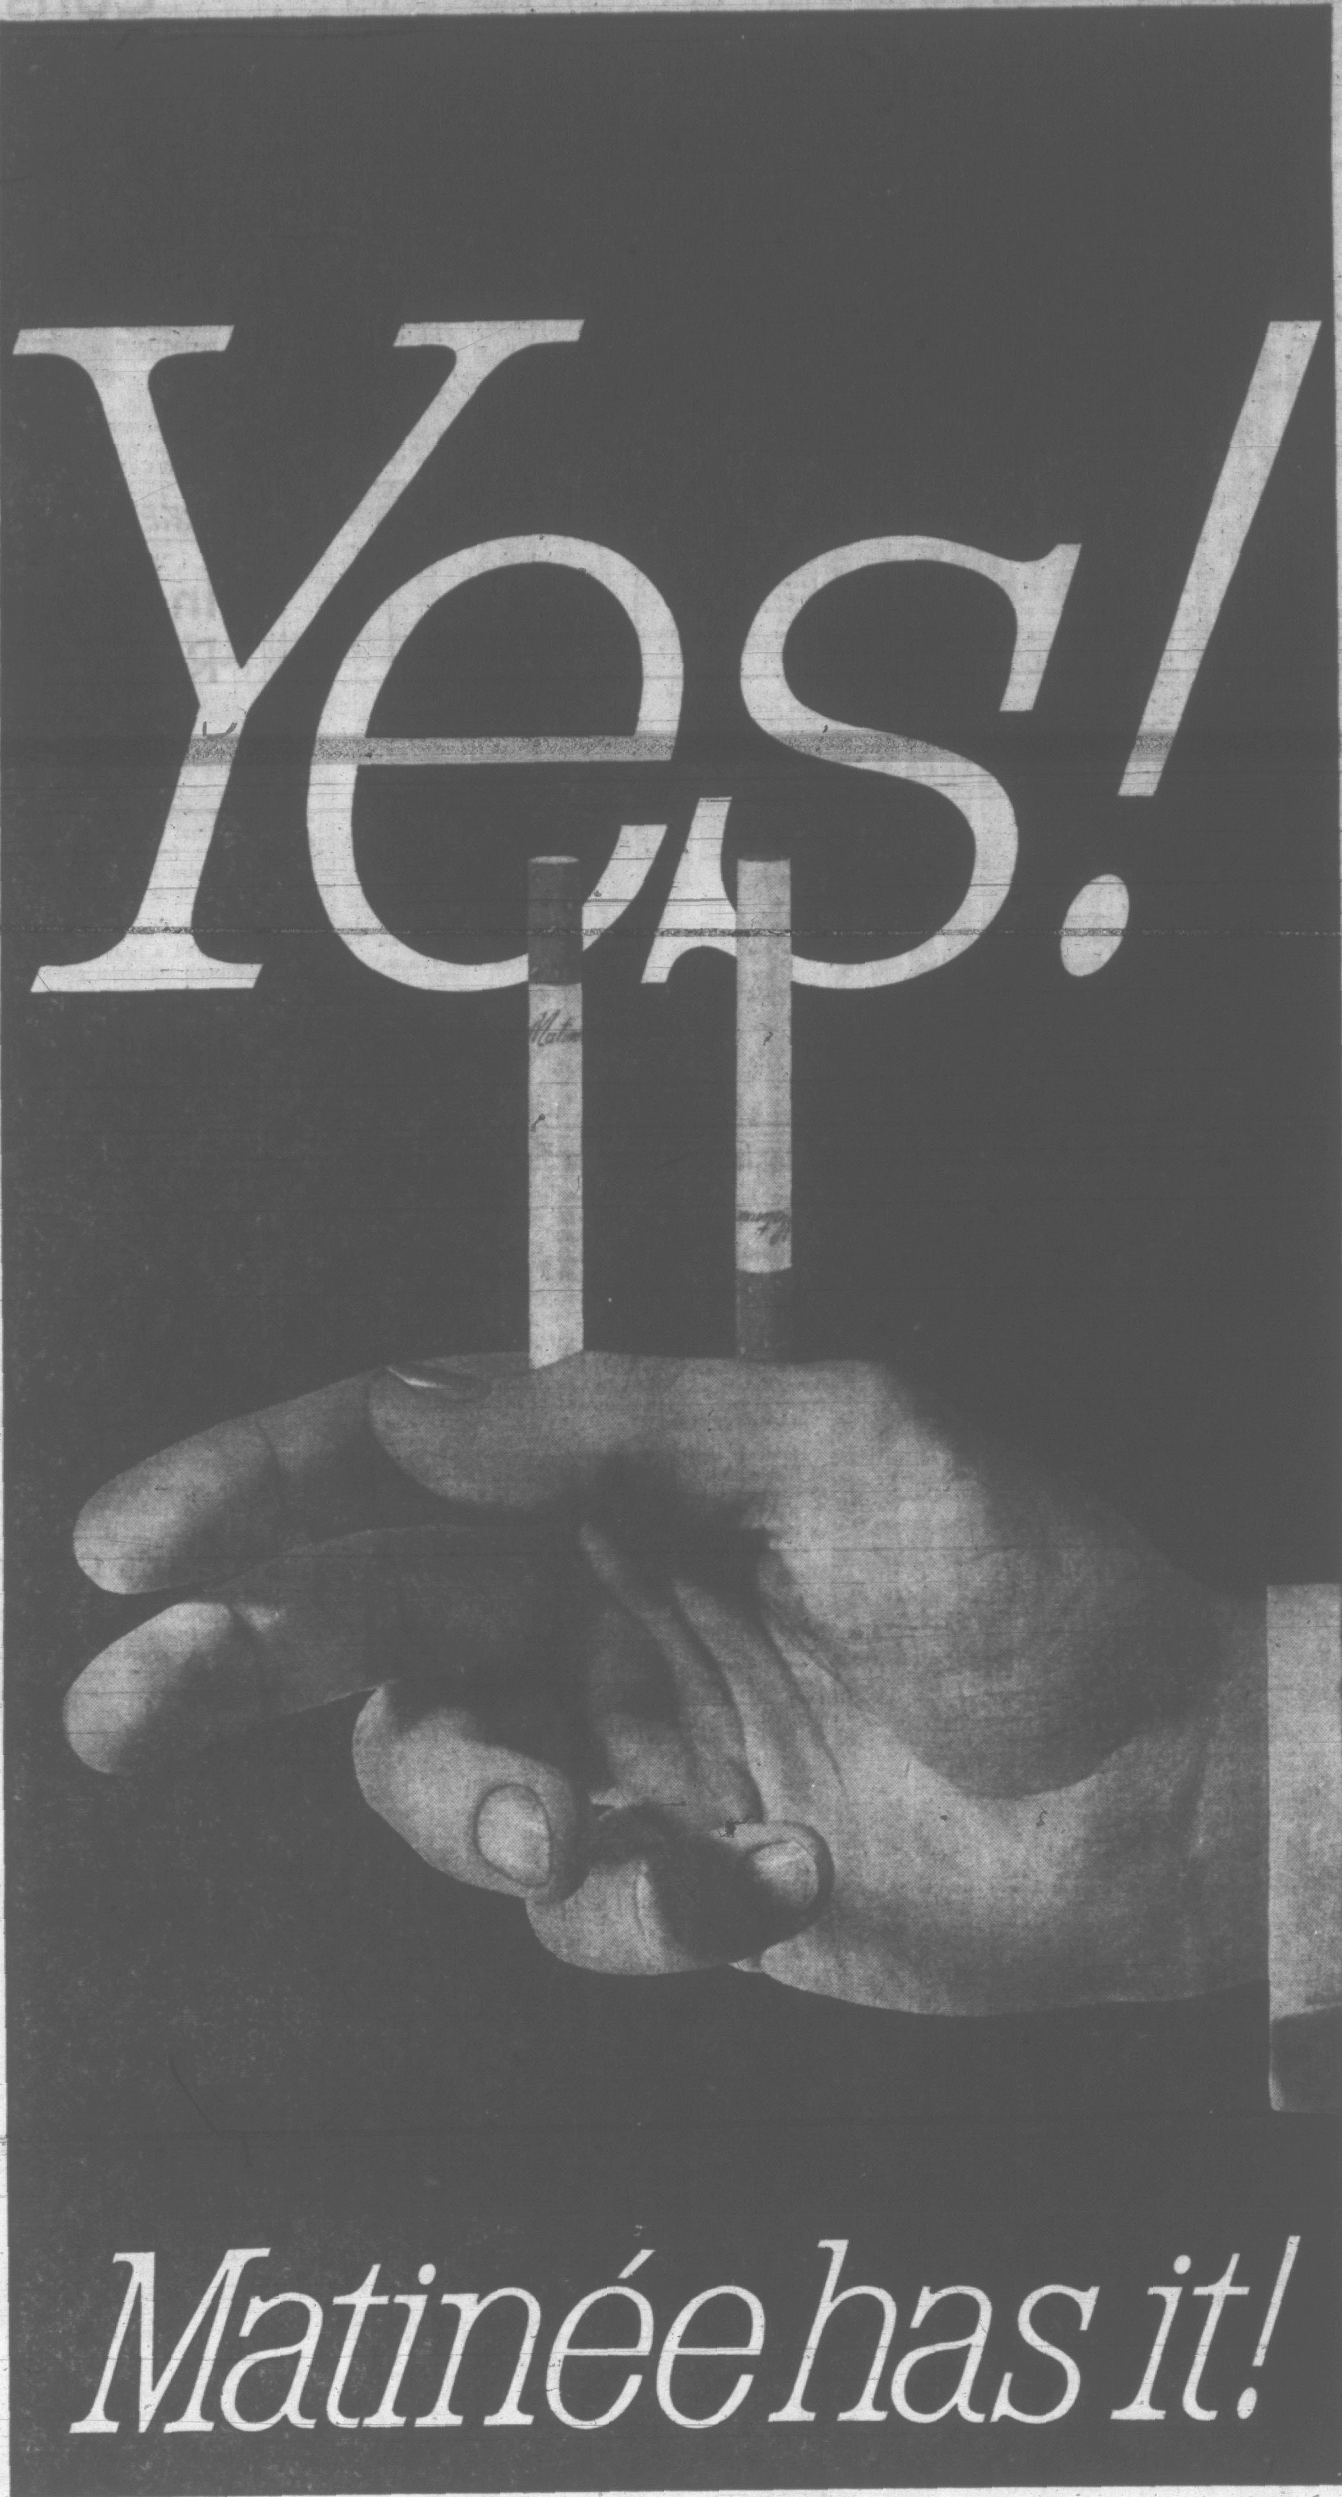

"All have tried to attain high ideals but each has failed in some way."

He gave these divisions: Orthodox—Reject voting; cling to communal living ideals; vegetarian diet; Russian language. Independent—Against spiritual leadership; believe in a democratic structure and voting; pacifist; reject vegetarianism.

Sons of Freedom—Close to orthodox in some respects; some strip, others against it; have migration aspirations, publicity hungry for political purposes and power.

The Sons of Freedom have been blamed for much trouble in the B.C. Interior over the years. Much of the sect now has migrated to near Mountain Prison near Agassiz, 60 miles east of Vancouver, where many of their number of imprisoned for acts of violence.

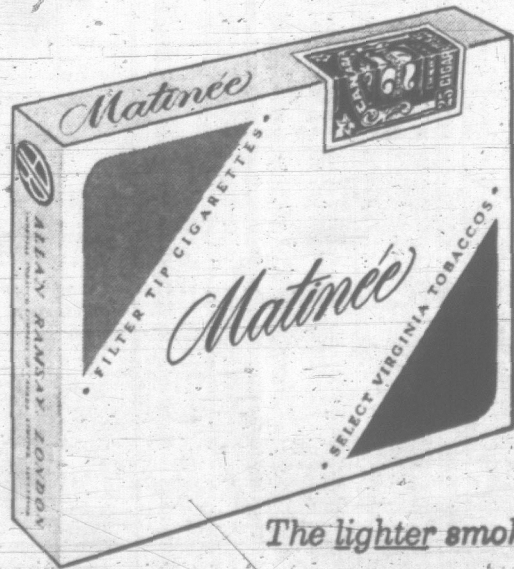

Dr. James M. Rollins of the University of Saskatchewan sociology department said it is not strange that a minority group that has not integrated itself in society has three or four conflicting groups.

FLUORIDATION BEGINS IN METRO TORONTO

TORONTO (CP) — Metropolitan Chairman William Allen picked up the telephone Wednesday and moments later fluoridation of Metro's water supply started.

Mr. Allen's call to Work Commissioner Ross Clark set complicated machinery to work immediately, feeding a fluoride compound into the water at the rate of one part sodium fluoride to 1,000,000 parts of water.

It ended 12 years of government, plebiscite and court holdups.

Last December a plebiscite of Metro area electors resulted in fluoridation being passed by a narrow margin.

AS OTHERS SEE US

'To Knock Back a Dozen Greatest Joy in Canada'

By MARGE GILROY

Canadian teen-agers will do almost anything for money and their greatest joy is to buy a case of beer, then drink every drop.

That is the way two visiting 19-year-old English students see them.

Geoffrey Nattrass, second-year law student at London University and Phil Dover, second-year economics student at the University of Nottingham, have spent the summer working with and observing Canadians.

They came to Canada two months ago on a flight sponsored by the British University North America Club. The plan is to allow as many British students as possible to see North America as cheaply as possible. Return fare—$160.

GOT JOBS PROMPTLY

Shortly after they arrived in Montreal they found work, Geoffrey as an office employee and Phil as a laborer.

"Montreal was disappointing and so were many of the other large cities in Canada—they are so stereotyped," said Geoffrey.

He found English and French-speaking Canadians quite different.

"They have an entirely different set of values," said Geoff. "The English are only interested in making money but to the French Canadian this is not so important and the English just can't understand this."

LIVED IN BUS

After six weeks of work in Montreal they hitch hiked to Woodstock, Ont. There, they picked up a new school bus and drove to Lethbridge. It served as a camper en route.

In Banff the boys stopped for a week and earned pocket money as caddies at the Canadian Ollmen's Golf Tournament. That was when they noticed how money-conscious Canadian teen-agers really are.

Phil said it — "they do almost anything for money and then they think the greatest thing is to buy a crate of beer and sit down and drink every drop."

HITCH-HIKED TO VICTORIA

From Banff they hitch-hiked to Victoria where they were the guest of Ed MacKayden, who picked the boys up near Duncan.

"I have felt most at home in Quebec City and on Vancouver Island, they have more of an English atmosphere," said Phil.

Generally the two English students have enjoyed their summer in Canada and most of all the out-door life.

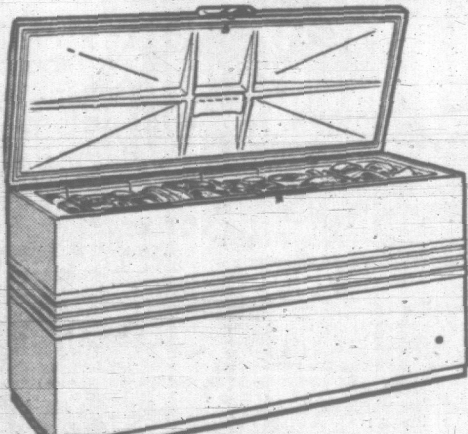

"I had never seen live water skiing before," remarked Phil. Phil's mother is Canadian and he is tentatively planning on returning to Canada when he graduates.

But Geoff says, "I'm afraid I am too English, I'll stay in London."

Labor 'Old Guard' Won't Trust Tories

BRIGHTON, England (AP) — Britain's organized labor has refused to discipline its wage demands as part of a national effort to plan the nation's economy. Old-line leaders said they do not trust the Conservative government to do the planning.

The union's old guard, with memories of depression and decades of pre-war labor strife, pushed through a resolution at the annual conference of the 8,000,000-member Trades Union Congress rejecting "any form of wage restraint."

Passage of the resolution colored the Labor party's political picture by dimming the moderate image the party has been trying to present for the national elections which must be held in the next year.

The old guard's action also undermined congress general secretary George Woodcock's appeal to speak for organized labor in bargaining with industry and government in the nation's economic councils.

"I want room to manoeuvre, to talk to the people with power," the Oxford-educated union chief pleaded. A trained economist who started as a mill hand, he found himself in open conflict with boiler-makers' chief Ted Hill and transport leader Frank Cousins, who came up the hard way through the picket lines.

"We will not have wage restraint, whoever brings it in and wraps it up for us," retorted Cousins, whose union's members had the votes to swing the conference against wage restraint.

"We can't trust any more reactionary Tory governments with our wage packets," said Hill.

He said he would take an entirely different view of planning and would be the first one to this rostrum to move wage restraint — if a Labor government is elected. Cousins agreed that "if we want to do something about wage levels, we must do it at the ballot boxes."

Municipal Draftsman Found Dead

Saanich municipality's chief draftsman, Charles Albert Wiley Goodman, 56, was found apparently drowned at Parksville Tuesday night.

Mr. Goodman, of 928 Pandora, was floating in about two feet of water at Edgewater Park Auto Camp. He had been holidaying there with his wife, Eva. An autopsy will be conducted by Dr. R. S. Clarke, regional pathologist, in Nanaimo. Quicum RCMP are investigating, and an inquiry will be held by Coroner Russ Inkster.

Mr. Goodman was born in England, and is survived by the widow, and daughter, Phyllida.

Platform Plank 'Theft' Charge

Liberal leader Ray Perrault, charged with "theft" Wednesday. He charged Opposition New Democratic Party leader Robert Strachan had stolen the Liberal's platform for industrial development.

Mr. Strachan earlier had announced the NDP would set up a new crown corporation to provide loans to new in-industry and offer public participation in profits.

"This just means he didn't go to sleep during my budget speech in the last session of the legislature," Mr. Perrault said. "It was all in there. He took it almost word for word."

However, Mr. Perrault said, Mr. Strachan flattered him by the plagiarism, even though it was blatant.

The Liberal leader said his party adopted the industrial development plan in 1959.

White Mother Sends Child To Ark. All-Negro School

By GEORGE F. BARTSCH
NORTH LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—When classes ended at McAlmont Elementary School just northeast of here Wednesday, Steven Fitts, 6, and Edward Jernigan, 7, came out with their arms around each other.

Steven, a white youngster, had just completed his first day in the all-Negro school.

Mrs. Yvonne Anita Fitts, 26, his mother, told a reporter: "He'll learn something by all of this. At his age, he has no prejudice."

Steven said excitedly: "I want to come back to this school tomorrow."

"Why—of course you will, honey," his mother said.

Mrs. Fitts' husband, AC Kenneth Jay Fitts, a native of Syracuse, N.Y., is stationed with the U.S. Air Force at Anchorage, Alaska. They have five children. The three eldest are adopted. Besides Steven, the children are Virginia Carole, 5, Adolpho Fidel, 4, and twins Kenneth Jay and Keith Jon, 2.

Mrs. Fitts said her husband approved her decision to send Steven to a Negro school, but cautioned her not to "let our boy get hurt."

Until three months ago, she said, she had thought little about desegregation since 1954, when she graduated from Little Rock Central High School and the U.S. Supreme Court handed down its school desegregation decision.

She joined the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People two months ago and pawned her movie camera last month to raise money for a trip to Washington and the civil rights march.

Mrs. Fitts said a Negro friend of her husband was being sent to Keesler Air Force Base, Miss., and she was telling him all the places he should visit.

"But he stopped me and said: 'I can't go to any of those places. They don't allow Negroes.'"

That's when the idea of sending Steven to McAlmont took root in her mind, she said. Steven normally would have attended all-white Sherwood Elementary School, three miles from his home. McAlmont is only 1½ miles away.

"This is the main thing we're fighting for—to have the child go to the school nearest his home," she said.

Mrs. Fitts says she has received a steady stream of obscene and threatening telephone calls. A rock was thrown through Steven's bedroom window, showering him with glass as he slept, but he was not cut, she said. Someone pelted Mrs. Fitts' small, white frame house with eggs.

UN ACTION ON YEMEN DEFENDED BY THANT

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Secretary-General U Thant reported Wednesday that the United Nations has failed so far to end the rival interventions of the United Arab Republic and Saudi Arabia in Yemen's civil war.

But he denied what he said were irresponsible and reckless charges that poor administration at UN headquarters was to blame for the situation.

He added that he intended to continue and if necessary to intensify his efforts to persuade the two intervening Arab nations to abide by their agreement to effect a military withdrawal from Yemen.

Prison Officer Hurt In Scuffle With Douks

CHILLIWACK, B.C. (CP)—A coroner's jury ruled Wednesday that a Sons of Freedom Douk-hob who died during a hunger strike died of starvation.

The jury attached no blame for the death of Paul Podmorow, who died in hospital here August 23 after being moved from Mountain Prison at nearby Agassiz.

Podmorow, serving a sentence in the special Freedomite prison 60 miles east of Vancouver for acts of violence, participated with more than 100 of his brethren in a hunger strike.

Dr. T. R. Harrison, a pathologist from Vancouver, testified

Bridge 'Only Solution'

The city's advisory traffic committee will add its efforts towards seeking senior government grants for a bridge across the Inner Harbor to siphon off heavy truck traffic.

Earlier in the year, aldermen agreed the ultimate solution to the Government Street congestion problem would be a high level bridge linking Tyce Road in Victoria West with Montreal Street in James Bay.

This would enable the city to divert heavy trucks and big lumber trucks through Victoria West to the outer wharves and keep them off Government Street.

But the cost problem, ranging from $4,000,000 to $6,000,000, stumped council members and led to a decision to feel out the senior governments while looking for a temporary alternative.

The council-citizen advisory committee Wednesday concluded that no satisfactory alternatives exist and the federal and provincial governments should be asked for financial help to build the bridge now.

"There's no question about this being the most workable solution to the problem of a truck route that would keep heavy vehicles off Government and entirely out of the Inner Harbor tourist area," said chairman Ald. M. H. Mooney.

SPORTS

DOUG PEDEEN, Sports Editor

12 Victoria Daily Times THURS. SEPT. 5, 1963

Hal Malone LOOKS AT SPORTS

Walking across the parking lot, the lithe, slight young man was hailed by a car hop.
"Way to go," the hop hollered.
At the counter inside a dark-haired waitress, eyes flashing, offered her hand instead of a menu.
"He's my boy," she said to an onlooker. "He said he would win and he kept his word."

Billy Foster smiled. He is 26, five feet ten, 147 pounds, has had a cold for three weeks, smokes cigarettes in spurts, owns one wife, three children, and an easy sense of humor. When he isn't selling cars he drives one. His "Iron" (a modified sportsman, Elmer) is the hottest in the business.
Foster has pride and confidence. Heavy newspaper ink and public adulation have not ballooned his head to the point where he has to go to Jeune Bros. for a hat.

"Sure, I've won nine in a row," he said Wednesday. "I've had luck along the way. In Spokane I sprang off early. I had to ease off the button (gas pedal) but so did the other drivers. They were scared to try and pass."

Foster's appraisal of his success was honest but not wholly revealing. You don't string nine consecutive victories in anything—Davis Cup competition, the Olympics, World Series—without talent and courage and desire. Tommy Manville ran off a string of 11 marriages to set a world record for dubious judgment but in the light of the alimony he had to pay the value of his feat is questionable.

As Frowns Go, Crow's Was Giant Size

This year there has been nothing questionable about Mr. Foster's chauffeur. He had put his snout in front in Salt Lake City, in Portland, in Edmonton, in Boise and in other places eight times without dispute.

So successful has he been in snatching the swag—$1,500 at Salt Lake, $1,000 at Edmonton, assorted coins elsewhere—that one wondered why the others bothered.

Bill Crow of Boise bothered because he wanted to win the Canadian-American Modified Racing Association trophy go bad he could taste it. With it went $500—happy for lighting cigars. At Salt Lake he had led Foster in points, 550 to 79. Now before the Daffodil Cup chase on Labor Day his lead had shrunk to 19 points and his frown was broader than Kate Smith.

Eldon Rasmussen was there because he tasted the Daffodil dough in 1961 and savored the scent. Mr. Rasmussen showed up with a bent beak and two of the loveliest shiners this side of Floyd Patterson. He had tried a brick wall at 100 mph in Nanaimo Friday and lost. His dotting father and brother, upon hearing the news, sped the 650 miles from Edmonton to Victoria in 10 hours to put Eldon's bucket back together.

Jim Malloy came from Denver because he had never beaten Foster in a CAMRA event and was getting tired of chewing Billy's exhaust. In some games competitors wouldn't give each other the time of day but in car racing it's different. Malloy's crankshaft came ungilded Sunday, leaving him naked for the Daffodil. Who helped find a replacement and held his hand most of Monday? Fellow named Foster.

Quintuplets Couldn't Be Any Harder

Strolling nervously in the pits was Geoffrey Vantreight. He is big in the daffodil racket but his heart is in racing. He had a car going, too, a modified with upswep fins which allegedly give it a better hold of the track.

"This," said Mr. Vantreight, exhaling clouds of nicotine, "is worse than having five babies. At the same time. We've checked every bolt, every nut a thousand times."

Foster came along and Vantreight said, "Hello, Lucky. You going to break wind for us tonight so we can come along and pick up the money?"

Foster laughed. "I'm going to try," he answered. When the starting drivers were announced, Foster drew the loudest applause and the worst position—the penalty under the kooky reverse start policy for turning in the fastest time in the trials.

As it happened they could have placed Foster out on No. 1 Highway and it wouldn't have made much difference.

Al Smith, taxiing the Vantreight wagon, grabbed an early lead but this was not to be the night the daffodils would bloom for him. He drove as if the race was to the corner store rather than 150 laps, shoving the throttle through the boards and leaning heavily on the reins. By the 30th lap he was second and going backwards, along with the rest, as the No. 27 beetle straightened out the bends and hummed down the straightaways.

All the Daffs Were Spelled Foster

Thereafter the Daffodil was not a contest but a showcase for Foster, his car and his crew. Speedway fanatics like a little bluff with their racing. They talk about the rumbled leftovers more than the polished performer.

But few souls out of the 5,000 left their pews before Foster rolled up to the winner's circle, a rare tribute to the class of Mr. Smooth.

Afterwards, looking almost as fresh as well as a daffodil—he patted his pocket which would soon contain $1,345 for his weekend labor and said, yes, he was going to try the Championship Trial.

This is the dirt track circuit where the best roll the dice. The good ones go on to Indianapolis; the middle-of-the-road drivers keep on trying and the also-rans go back home.

"I've always wanted to find out if I could do it," Foster said. "My wife and I have talked about it for the last two weeks. If you want to," she said, "you should." So I quit my job."

The gap between the Pacific Northwest circuit and the Indy 500 is so wide a better could name his odds that it can't be bridged. But the same thing could have been said about Foster's chances of winning nine major races.

He paused and then picking his words carefully as he usually does... "what's the saying... If you don't bet you can't win."

Amen. And if you bet, have a deuce on you-know-who.

TALK ABOUT YOUR DOUBLE SNAFU...

VANCOUVER (CP)—Things got a bit fouled up after the fifth race at Exhibition Park Wednesday.

A jockey claimed a foul against the wrong horse and a horseman threw away $100 worth of tickets.

Wakonda, a 3-to-1 shot, won the race. Poop-Deck was second and Dona B. third.

Immediately Frank Inda, jockey of Dona B., claimed a foul against Wakonda. As the stewards were studying the films of the race, Inda rushed in to say that he meant Poop-Deck had fouled him.

The stewards upheld the claim. Poop-Deck was put back to third and Dona B. was declared second.

Meanwhile, two horsemen had entered a claim for Dona B. and had to toss a coin to see who got her.

One of them, Duane Onstad, threw away $100 worth of tickets on the mare after seeing her run third. He won the toss but couldn't find the tickets.

'WHERE D'YA THINK YOU'RE GOIN'?

Sharp eye is kept on Los Angeles Dodgers' Marv Breeding, 23, by Chicago Cubs' catcher Dick Bertell after Breeding made second attempt to touch plate with tying run in 11th inning at L.A. Wednesday night. Breeding, trying to score from third on fielder's choice, had smashed into Cub catcher and been tagged out several feet from plate but made a second try anyway. Umpire Ed Vargo is about to make the "out" call. Chicago won 2-1. (AP Wire-photo.)

Everything Lovey-Dovey With Sandy and Argos

TORONTO (UPI)—Quarterback Sandy Stephens worked out with the Toronto Argonauts Wednesday night and left coach Nobby Winkowski with the impression "that he is going to make this ball club."

Stephens, who signed earlier in the day to a "no restrictions" one-year contract for a reported $16,000, played halfback during practice and following the regular workout threw some 60 passes before the watchful eyes of Winkowski.

"The impression he left with me is that he is going to make this ball club," the coach said, "and do anything I want him to."

The former Montreal Alouettes signal caller, rejected because he was overweight and lacked leadership, received a sensational welcome. Newspapers and radio and television stations headlined his arrival and a comparatively huge crowd of 500 turned out for practice.

A random poll of Argonaut players confirmed Winkowski's belief that he had been "accepted" by the team despite the publicity surrounding his suspension in Montreal and the bally-hoo over his signing here.

The details of the contract weren't announced but a spokesman said it was vastly different than the three-year, no-cut $100,000-plus pact he signed in 1961 with Montreal as an All-American from Minnesota.

CAN BE CHOPPED

The contract, which permits the Argos to sell, trade or cut him, should he fail to make the grade, was a standard league form given to most ball players and both Stephens and the Argos agreed he was "just another football player."

"I introduced him to the players before practice," the coach said. "I said 'he's here as a football player and I think a talented one. That's all I said.'"

Winkowski brushed aside Stephens' alleged weight and attitude problems. He said he liked Stephens' outlook and speed.

"I liked his attitude and he's in good shape. I made him throw 60 drop back passes and that's not easy to do. But I wanted to see if he would quit and he didn't. But I knew he was tired after. Anybody would be."

'BAD DREAM'

Stephens called his stay in Montreal "a bad dream which I'm happy to forget. I want to start a new slate."

He said his weight "was not the real reason for my suspension" and indicated the real reason was a personality clash with coach Jim Finks, who coached Hamilton last year.

"I knew Trimble wasn't a Stephens' man before he even left Hamilton and I sensed something was wrong from the day I arrived in camp," he said.

He said Montreal's slow start this season was not his fault but caused by the coaching change, "which left the team unsettled."

"If (former coach Perry) Moss had been in charge this year, we'd have swept right through."

SANDY STEPHENS

FORMER LARK ADMITS DOCUMENTS FALSIFIED

TORONTO (UPI)—Toronto Argonaut end Tom Cloutier today admitted that "my former bosses on the Montreal Alouettes" obtained falsified documents to show he was born in Canada.

"I was actually born in Albany, California," the 23-year-old former University of California player told UPI.

By "former bosses" he was referring to ousted general manager and coach Perry Moss and former chief scout J. I. Albrecht.

"When Mr. Workman (owner Ted Workman) found out about this he went straight to the commissioner (G. Sydney Halter) who decided Montreal would have to let me go but said I could play anywhere else in Canada as a Canadian."

Workman, reached by phone in Montreal, said he learned of the subterfuge only after the season was over.

Halter explained away the falsification as "an error in my office."

SNUBBED YANK AMAZES

Emerson Downed In Major Upset

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) Frank Froehling of Coral Gables, Fla., smashed his way back into the United States Davis Cup picture Wednesday with a stunning 6-4, 4-6, 9-7, 6-2 triumph over second-seeded Roy Emerson in the fourth round of the U.S. national tennis championships.

The Trinity University student, snubbed by the Davis Cup and tournament seeding committees this year although he is ranked No. 2 in the U.S., literally blasted the tough Australian off the court.

He served with such blazing power that Emerson repeatedly missed the ball completely or the Australian shook his head in disbelief.

Emerson—the Australian and French champion—broke three racquets during the course of the match.

Before the match Froehling, 21, said he planned to play his heart out for a victory in order to get out of the tennis doghouse.

"They don't like me because I was a cut-up as a kid, but that's all past now," he said.

The towering Floridian was joined in the men's quarter-finals by three U.S. Davis Cup team members, Chuck McKinley, Dennis Ralston and Martin Riessen; Mexico's cat-like Rafael Osuna and a pair of giant-killers from Brazil, Ronnie Barnes and Thomas Koch.

The defeat of third-seeded Billie Jean Moffitt of Long Beach, Calif., the Wimbledon runnerup, and a narrow squeak for second-seeded Darlene Hard featured the fourth round in the women's division.

Miss Moffitt, never reaching the form she showed in England, faded badly after winning the first set and lost to Deirdre Cati, a tiny Briton, 2-6, 8-6, 7-5.

OSHAHA PLAYS JUNIOR ROCKS

OSHAHA (CP)—Oshawa advanced into the Canadian junior lacrosse finals Wednesday night defeating Brampton 14-5 to win the best-of-seven final four games to two.

John Davis led the Oshawa onslaught with six goals.

Oshawa will represent Eastern Canada against the Western winners, Victoria Shamrocks, for the Canadian junior championship and the Minto Cup.

COWAN ON COURSE:

'This Is Ridiculous'

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—The top players on the Mexican and Canadian amateur golf teams which challenged the United States today in the start of the Americas Cup matches say the course may be too tough for them.

"The course plays awfully long," Juan Estrada, leading Mexican player, said Wednesday. "The greens are good but the course is very hard. I would settle for par on any round and see if anyone could beat me."

Gary Cowan of Kitchener, Ont., of the Canadian team, echoed Estrada's comments.

"This is ridiculous," Cowan said. "You can hit two real good shots, just miss the green and wind up in rough you can't even get out of."

Both Cowan and Estrada said their best rounds in practice for the biennial event were 75s on the par-72 Wakonda Country Club course, on which the U.S. Amateur will be played next week.

Stamps Are 'Childish' —Delbridge

Calgary Raked By Lion Prexy for Rejecting Bid

VANCOUVER (CP)—The president of the British Columbia Lions charged Wednesday Calgary Stampedeers are being "petty", "childish" and "parochial" in rejecting a B.C. bid for a change of date of a football game.

"They evidently do not realize that the B.C. fans are the most important factor in the financial success of the Western Conference," said Slim Delbridge in an interview.

He was commenting on Calgary's rejection of a B.C. request that the game slated for Monday, Sept. 30 — B.C. Election Day — be played Sunday, Sept. 29 instead. B.C. said the election could hurt attendance.

Jim Finks, general manager of Calgary, said that the injury-ridden team requires Sunday off because of games earlier in the week against Eastern Conference teams. He offered to postpone the game until Oct. 6.

'PAROCHIAL ATTITUDE'

Delbridge said that Calgary plays Montreal Alouettes Sept. 24 and would have four days before a Sept. 29 game here. If the game were played on Oct. 1, Lions would have only three days before an Oct. 5 game in Edmonton.

"It would appear that Calgary is adopting a parochial attitude to the suggested change."

He said in the past Lions have made contributions to every team, including Calgary, through the gate equalization fund.

"But, evidently, as far as Calgary is concerned, they like our money but our fans deserve no consideration."

LIONS CO-OPERATED

"It is high time that clubs like Calgary desist from their childish attitude and consider the welfare of football as a whole. I don't think it helps pro football to adopt such a petty attitude."

"Apparently it all depends whose ox is being gored. Vancouver has the welfare of football as a whole in mind when it waived its prerogative and permitted Bob Taylor to play against Regina and the Lions on Aug. 23 and 26 despite the fact that he was technically barred from play. However, the Lions executive felt that he should not be barred by a mere technicality."

SEEKS OUT McMAHON

"Perhaps Calgary could force itself to adopt a similar attitude to football."

Delbridge said he will take the matter of a change of date up with George McMahon, Stampeder president, when he arrives here Friday with the team. Calgary plays B.C. Saturday night at Empire Stadium.

Marg Todd, Partner 7th At Auckland

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (Reuters) — Mrs. Betty Stanhope Cole of Edmonton and Una Wickham of New Zealand were beaten by a single stroke today in the New Zealand women's stroke play foursomes golf championship here.

They finished second in the 36-hole championship won by Sheila Caughan and Julia Greenhalgh of Britain with an aggregate of 156.

Gayle Hitchens of Vancouver and Rae Milligan of Calgary finished sixth with 168. Mrs. J. H. Todd of Victoria paired with Britain's Mrs. Frances Smith to take seventh place with 169.

All the Canadian players competed in the recent Commonwealth women's tournament in Australia.

Exhausted Mays Sore At Nobody

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Willie Mays, the $105,000-a-year centerfielder of San Francisco Giants, said Wednesday he blames nobody on the National League club because he was kept in the lineup day after day until forced out by exhaustion on Labor Day.

Earlier Mays had said the team will have to rest him more often if it expects him to go on for several more seasons. "I believe everybody in the organization knows I don't blame them," Mays told The Associated Press by telephone from home where he is resting. "I like the people I work for."

At Candlestick Park after Wednesday's 8-3 win over Houston Colts—the third straight game Mays has missed completely since his dizzy spell—Giants manager Alvin Dark commented:

"I had to play him as long as I could and this year it is tougher than ever. We had only 23 players. Everybody had to play and everybody was tired."

Dark referred to the fact the Giants carried two bonus pitchers on their roster of 25, limiting the club's bench strength.

"There was no spot where we could take Willie out," Dark added.

"Willie just played until he was completely exhausted. We had no way of telling how tired he was."

Mays' resurgent bat had kept the Giants close on the heels of Los Angeles Dodgers until, just before Labor Day, the Dodgers whipped the Giants three out of four games at Los Angeles and plunged them into third place behind St. Louis Cardinals.

It's undoubtedly too late for such heroics this season, with the Giants all but out of the race, but Mays probably will be back Friday night for a three-game home series with the Dodgers.

Cards Sniff Pennant — 'Bird-Seed' Snorts LA

General manager Bing Devine says he can see "definite signs" of a St. Louis Cardinals pennant victory despite a wavering voice from Los Angeles that keeps saying that's a lot of bird-seed.

Devine claims that the Cardinals players, all fired up by a seven-game winning streak which has cut the Dodgers' National League lead to five games, honestly feel they can overtake Walt Alston's crew.

The Cards, who beat the Mets, 6-5, Wednesday while the Cubs won the Dodgers, 2-1, in 11 innings have two big things going for them—the schedule and a burning desire to win the pennant as a fitting farewell for retiring Stan Musial.

Fifteen of the Cardinals' remaining 23 games are scheduled at home and that includes three with the Dodgers.

As for the 42-year-old Musial, he has no intention of sitting around and not contributing his share.

473RD FOR MUSIAL

Stan the Man socked the 473rd homer of his career Wednesday night and his 10th of the season with one man on in the fifth inning after Bill White had hammered his 24th homer in the fourth.

Ken Boyer, however, broke a five-all tie when he singled off lower Larry Bearns in the seventh for his 100th run batted in of the year. Sam (Toothpick) Jones pitched to one batter in the seventh and that was enough to earn him his second victory.

Ken Hubbs snapped a four-game Dodger winning streak by singling home Andre Rodgers in the 11th inning with the winning run for the Cubs.

Hubbs delivered his game-winning blow off Ken Rowe, the Dodgers' third pitcher, after starter Bob Miller and Ron Farnsworth had held Chicago to one run through the first 10 innings. Lindy McDaniel picked up his 11th win in relief of starter Cal Koonce.

SPAHN NEARS 30

Meanwhile, Milwaukee's Warren Spahn grabbed part of the spotlight with a sparkling fourth, 10-victory over Pittsburgh Pirates that gave him 19 victories for the season, the 60th shutout of his career and seventh place on the all-time list of winners with 346 triumphs.

Willie McCovey hit his 35th homer and Orlando Cepeda collected No. 26 as San Francisco Giants walloped Houston Colts 8-3 and pitcher Dennis Bennett provided the go-ahead run in Philadelphia Phillies' 3-2 decision over Cincinnati Reds.

In the American League, Roger Maris pulled a game out of the fire in the last of the ninth inning Wednesday with a two-run homer, lifting the New York Yankees to a 5-4 victory over Washington Senators.

A few hours later, Minnesota Twins nosed into second place by beating Los Angeles 4-2 after Kansas City Athletics had swept a pair from Chicago White Sox, 4-2 and 7-3.

The results mean that any combination of New York victories and Minnesota losses to talling 11 will give the Bombers their 28th pennant. The Yankees are 12½ games ahead with 22 to go; the Twins have 23 to play. Chicago, now 13 out, has 22 games left.

TIGERS STILL ROLL

Phil Regan won again, Al Kaline took over the league batting lead and Rocky Colavito batted in three runs as Detroit's streaking Tigers whipped Boston Red Sox 6-1 and Baltimore Orioles overcame Cleveland Indians 6-5 on the first grand-slam homer of Luis Aparicio's eight-year major league career.

Regan won for the ninth time in 10 decisions. Colavito knocked in his three runs with a pair of doubles, and Kaline had three of Detroit's 13 hits, edging past Boston's Carl Yastrzemski in their duel for the batting crown. Kaline is at .318 and Yastrzemski, who was 1 for 4, is .317.

Aparicio, the light-hitting and light-footed shortstop, powered Baltimore into a 6-3 lead with his grand slam in the sixth inning and a trio of relievers saved the victory for Robin Roberts, 13-11.

Another Dealer Joins Gas War

NANAIMO (CP) — Another service station has joined the city's gasoline price war.

Jack Harrison, owner of Harrison Motors, said Wednesday he has asked Imperial Oil Ltd. to take control of his pumps and scale prices down to below wholesale.

He said customer complaints prompted the move. Imperial Oil has agreed to pay him a commission for use of the pumps.

"I had to protect my customers," he said. "I'm only a small man and I can't afford to give money away. I told Imperial they could have the pumps and they could do what they like with their prices. The oil companies can fight it out between themselves."

Pay-N-Save and Northview Service stations dropped their prices earlier.

Pay-N-Save now charges 33.9 cents per gallon for regular and 38.8 for premium; Northview 35.9 and 40.9, and Harrison Motors 35.9 and 40.9. The previous price at Harrison Motors was 45 and 49 cents per gallon.

ALBERNI — Police have released names of two people who escaped and one man who died when a car plunged into Rogers Creek at high tide about 12:30 a.m. Wednesday.

John Charles Anscombe, 40, of 608 Ninth Avenue North, Port Alberni, died. He was the driver of the car.

Mrs. Elizabeth Dinsdale, Gaunier Road, Alberni, and Reginald Lesnau, 811 Fourth Avenue North, Port Alberni, survived the accident.

CAMPBELL RIVER — Passengers aboard an Island Airlines plane increased from three to four while flying from Cortez Island to Campbell River Tuesday.

The increase took place when Mrs. Margaret Hanson gave birth to a seven-pound baby in mid-air, shortly after the plane took off from Cortez Island.

She was taken to Campbell River Hospital.

Capt. Bob Savage, pilot, was called to transport the mother to hospital. He gambled that he would make the trip from Cortez Island on time, but the storm won.

NANAIMO (CP) — Portland, Oregon, was held up Wednesday as a good example of bad planning.

Ald. Doug Greer, back from a visit to the U.S. city, said Nanaimo city planners should take a lesson from Portland's unsightly sprawl.

He said shopping centres on the edge of the city have caused deterioration in the downtown area. Many stores, offices and other buildings are vacant and attempts are being made to move federal offices into the suburbs.

"I'd hate to see this happen here," he said. "We could reach a point, if nothing is done, when it would be too late."

PORT ALBERNI — Every inch of display space is filled for the opening of the 18th annual Alberni District Fall Fair tonight at 7.

"Entries are up in nearly all divisions," said chief organizer Ted Okrainetz.

PORT RENFREW — Complaints about the condition of the West Coast Road brought swift action from the B.C. highways department Wednesday when trucks moved into Port Renfrew to start work.

Local residents expressed concern Tuesday that children of Milnes Landing High School would be unable to attend because the operator of the bus service had decided to stop travelling the 27-mile gravel road. He later relented.

"The road is now under repair," said Esquimalt-Social Credit MLA Herbert Bruch. "No time is being lost."

PORT ALBERNI — Thirty-two deep-sea freighters left here in August carrying 61,789 tons of forest products to world markets.

Net Fishing Time Reduced

Net fishing for salmon in Juan de Fuca Strait will be cut off on Thursday, the department of fisheries announced Wednesday.

This cuts the normal fishing period this week by 24 hours, in addition to a 24-hour delay in starting at the beginning of the week.

Purse seines are operating from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. today and Thursday; gillnetters fished from 7 p.m. Tuesday, to 7 a.m. today, and will resume at 7 tonight, closing off at 7 a.m. Thursday.

Charged In Robbery

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP) — Postal clerk Norman Edward Fischer, 41, of North Burnaby, has been charged with armed robbery in the $9,041 holdup of a bank here Tuesday. Police said they recovered all but $600 of the stolen money, and expected to find the rest in a bank account.

This compared with 40,013 in August, 1962.

PORT ALBERNI — Any work-for-welfare meant a return to "going rate" of wages, council was told by Ald. William Goddard Wednesday.

He denied suggestions that support of Courtenay Mayor William Moore's stand on work-for-welfare meant a return to the 20-cents-an-hour days of the depression years.

NANAIMO — The controversial Jingle Pot overpass isn't as completely popular as its proponents expected.

Some parents feel that school-bound youngsters might fall off the structure. One nearby resident commented: "It's a crazy idea. Now everyone else will want one."

Work on the overpass is now underway.

DUNCAN — Michael A. Marrs of Duncan was remanded without plea Wednesday to Sept. 12 for the charge of assaulting an RCMP officer. Cash bail was set at $100.

Also in court Wednesday, Patrick R. Clements was fined $100 after he was found guilty of causing a disturbance in a public place.

COURTENAY — Six day shopping has been rejected again by city council, after a request from a supermarket. Decision was made Wednesday until the annual store-hours meeting of council in January.

PORT ALBERNI — A modified shift system and other minor adjustments will enable District 70 schools to take care of 5,900 pupils this year.

Two Gray Elementary classes will be on shifts for two weeks. Two Sproat Elementary classes will go to Great Central and John Howitt classes to Alberni and Wood while construction is completed.

QUALICUM BEACH — Top prizes of $50 each in the Fish and Game Association salmon derby last weekend were shared by H.W. Molland, Cumberland, for a 36.8-pound salmon, and Walter Houston, Qualicum Beach, for a 12.4 coho.

PORT ALBERNI — A residential development encompassing about 400 lots in the northeast section of the city is suggested in a report submitted to council by general superintendent Len Crowshaw.

Area under consideration is bounded by King Street and North Park Drive east of 17th Avenue.

EXPERT MAINTENANCE is a must on the RCAF's jet aircraft, and Leading Aircraftman Rory Cornelle, 21, of Victoria, performs it on a complicated jet engine at RCAF Station, Comox. LAC Cornelle, an aero-engine technician with 409 Nighthawk Squadron, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Cornelle, 944 Island Road.

Fight Over Girl Related to Jury

NANAIMO (CP) — A story of a girl who came between two brothers has been unfolded by a witness at a capital murder trial here.

David Mitchell, 20, is charged with killing his brother, Harvey, who died Feb. 16 when cut down by a .22-calibre rifle bullet on the Shell Beach Indian Reserve near Ladysmith. The trial goes into its third day today.

Herman Harris, 17, also of the Shell Beach Reserve, testified he was drinking with the two brothers when Corinne Pierre, who had been living at the Mitchell home since January, entered the house.

He said a quarrel broke out between David and Harvey over the girl. At one point, he said, Harvey slapped the girl's face.

Harris said David told him to "go get the gun." "David and I went down to my house. I took the gun down and gave it to David. It was unloaded. David got the shells for it out of my suitcase. I told him where to look."

He said David loaded the gun and went back to the Mitchell home. He said David waited outside until Harvey came through the kitchen door and then started shooting. Harvey put his hands to his chest and ran back into the house, he testified.

Leslie Mitchell, a third brother, told the court he heard David and Corinne Pierre arguing prior to Harvey's death.

He said after he heard four or five rapid rifle shots, David "came into my room and said 'what do you think of me? I've killed Harvey.'"

LAWYERS MEET

B.C. Leads Fight On Abortion Law

BANFF, Alta. (CP) — Fac-tions for and against more liberal abortion laws built up to-day for the first serious struggle within the Canadian Bar Association during its 45th annual conference here.

The impetus on both sides came from British Columbia lawyers.

Stewart McMorran, Vancouver city prosecutor, in putting forward a resolution urging expansion of Criminal Code grounds for abortion, said he doubted the proposal will be sanctioned by delegates but it will at least focus attention on a vital moral question facing Canada.

There was a need to ensure that the Criminal Code kept pace with changing concepts. There had been no such changes for 70 years.

He said there are between 6,000 and 10,000 abortions—half of them illegal—in Vancouver each year. A similar problem existed in other major Canadian centres.

RESISTS CHANGE

Bruce E. Emerson, president of the Catholic Lawyers' Guild of British Columbia, said suggestions that the majority of lawyers in the B.C. section of the Canadian Bar Association favor liberalization of abortion laws a fallacy.

He said the proposal was approved in principle last June at the annual meeting of the criminal justice section of the B.C. Association but only about 200 of B.C.'s 1,500 lawyers attended the session.

The debate on the proposal was scheduled today during the annual meeting of the national criminal justice section, held in conjunction with the CBA meeting.

Under present law, abortions are permitted only when the life of the mother is in danger. Mr. McMorran's resolution would add three additional grounds.

These were when continued pregnancy endangers the physical or mental health of the mother, if there are reasonable and probable grounds to believe a woman became pregnant as a result of a criminal act or if there is a substantial risk the child might be born with a grave mental or physical disability.

The resolution suggests those provinces wishing to widen the legal grounds for abortion could establish a special six-man board of doctors, lawyers and social workers to handle the job.

Mr. McMorran said provinces which do not desire the additional legislation would not be bound by actions in another.

The resolution would legalize the sale of contraceptives and withdraw from hospital boards the powers to decide upon requests from men or women for sexual sterilization.

Mr. Emerson, who said he will be supported by non-Roman Catholic lawyers in his fight to kill the resolution, said it "is an attempt to divest entirely from any judicial control the legal execution of countless human beings."

"Although a human life is balanced on the scales, no judge presides, no advocate speaks the muffled protest of the babe in the mother's womb and no jury stands to be convinced beyond a reasonable doubt before the sentence of death is pronounced."

"It will be said we are callous of life since we would gravely impair the physical and mental health of the mother just to save an unborn child."

"We will neither condemn an innocent mother to die in order to save her child nor may we condemn an innocent child to death to save the mother."

"Our efforts must be to save both."

DEFER RESOLUTION

Wednesday the criminal justice section tabled for one year a move to amend the Criminal Code to provide a guide in capital murder cases involving persons bordering on insanity.

Charles Grant of Edmonton proposed an amendment to provide that where a person kills or is a party to the killing of another, he "must not be convicted of murder if the evidence discloses that there is a probability he is suffering from such abnormality of mind (whether arising from a condition of arrested or retarded development of mind or any inherent causes or induced by disease or injury) as to substantially impair his mental responsibility for his acts and omissions in doing or being a party to the killing."

Mr. McKenzie told the section, meeting in conjunction with the Canadian Bar Association: "By implication there's a blot, or at least a smudge, on Peterson's record, and having gone to the minister, there is nowhere else he can turn."

Mr. McKenzie proposed a court martial's appeal board be established, comprised of federal and provincial judges. He said it should be empowered to hear appeals against discharge on security grounds.

Mr. Peterson, an electronics expert in the navy, now operates a hotel in Victoria. He does not want to return to the navy.

Appeal Board Urged On Security Firings

BANFF, Alta. (CP) — The civil rights section of the Canadian Bar Association said Wednesday it will study a proposal that a judicial appeal tribunal be established for persons discharged by the armed forces on security grounds.

The decision came after Lloyd McKenzie of Victoria described the dismissal of his client, Eric Peterson, 30, from the Canadian navy.

Mr. Peterson, a former petty officer, was told when he tried to enlist for a third five-year term the navy no longer needed his services.

Mr. McKenzie said no formal or official reason was given but Mr. Peterson was told his application was denied because a relative "had been a member of the Communist party" during the 1930s.

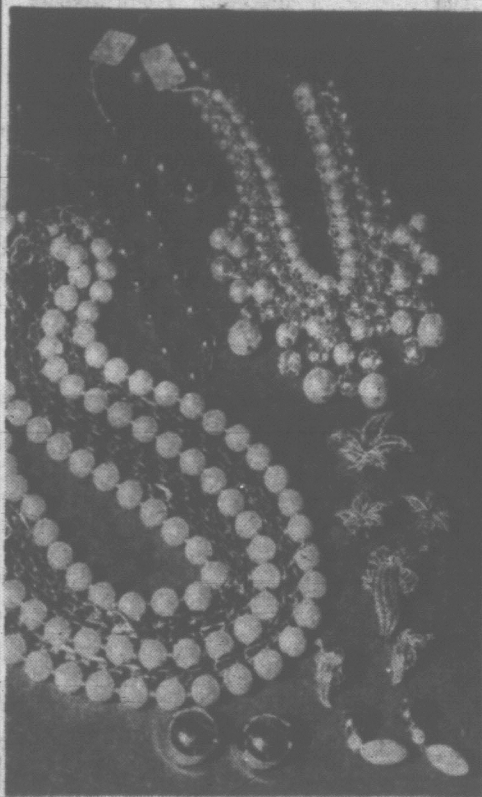

The case first became public when Mr. McKenzie asked De-

FEDERALISTS

One Government Held Possible

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Is world government possible? Prof. Charles Burchill of 1350 Dallas Road believes it is, and his opinion is backed by 100 delegates from 21 countries who attended the 11th congress of the World Association of World Federalists in Tokyo and Kyoto, Aug. 23-30.

Back in Victoria today, tall, quiet-spoken Prof. Burchill said the World Federalists took an important step in the direction of world government.

It devised and approved the Tokyo Declaration calling for revision of the United Nations charter to convert the UN into a world government, with power to enact and enforce world law.

LIMITED AUTHORITY

"But its authority would be strictly limited to the maintenance of law and order among the nations," Prof. Burchill said.

He emphasized that the World Federalist movement, of which he is president in Canada, has wide support in 46 different countries.

Its proposals were debated and endorsed by the International Bar Association at its meeting in Athens last June.

"Besides defining the aims of the movement in the Tokyo Declaration, the congress debated and approved reports from separate sections on disarmament and security, on the economic aspects of disarmament and on the moral basis of world government."

CORDIAL MEETING

"It was a very cordial and constructive conference," Prof. Burchill said.

The constitution of Japan, he added, explicitly renounces the right to make war and forbids the maintenance of armed forces. So the climate of Japan is particularly favorable to Federalist proposals.

"We were royally entertained by government and municipal officials and by the Kyoto Chamber of Commerce. The press, too, was very friendly and gave comprehensive coverage to our deliberations."

The Japanese government brought Earl Attlee, prime minister of Britain's Labor government from 1945 to 1951 and vice-president of the World Association of World Federalists, to the conference.

"He has aged considerably," said Prof. Burchill, "but is still a very vigorous and forthright speaker."

JAPANESE ENTHUSIASTIC

More than 2,500 Japanese jammed the opening sessions of the congress, and the city of Tokyo, with a population of 10,000,000 joined other major cities and prefectures of Japan in proclaiming "mondialization."

Mondialization, he explained, means allegiance to world government as soon as such a government can be formed.

Prof. Burchill said a special committee was set up to discuss unemployment problems likely to be created by world government and general disarmament.

He believes Canada would adjust fairly easily to disarmament but the United States, which is spending about $60,000,000,000 a year on armaments, would be seriously affected.

CANADA SPENDING LESS

"Canada is spending only half as much per capita as the United States on armaments, and a great many of our armaments industries could be converted to civilian construction. For instance we could produce cargo ships and ferries, instead of warships, for countries which need them."

"Britain and most European countries have so much planning in their economic systems that they wouldn't be hard hit by disarmament."

Prof. Burchill revealed that many Japanese goods now being sold in Canada are being made from Canadian raw materials.

"Canada sells about three times as much to Japan as Japan sells to Canada," he said.

The professor is head of the history and economics department of the Canadian Services College at Royal Roads. He was accompanied on his trip to Japan by Mrs. Burchill and they also spent 19 days in Communist China.

"That is another story which I don't want to discuss now," he said.

Witnesses Saw 16 Lands In Two Months

Two Victoria delegates to the Around the World Assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses returned here Wednesday from Honolulu.

Miss Esther Marshall, 121 West Burnside, and Miss Mabel Barnard, 2743 Mount Stephen Avenue, visited 16 countries in eight weeks and made a tour of the Holy Land.

"We were much intrigued by the ruins of ancient Greece," Miss Marshall said, "and the road construction through the mountains of Taiwan was very impressive."

Miss Marshall and Miss Barnard were among 580 Witnesses who flew a total of 16,000,000 passenger miles between them on a round the world tour.

The 6,000 tickets issued on 57 scheduled airlines, if laid end to end, would be 71 miles long, Miss Marshall said.

"It was the largest undertaking the airlines had ever handled and it made aviation history in more ways than one."

Total cost of the world tour was $1,455,965.

Emergencies Up During August At St. Joseph's

Total number of emergency cases treated at St. Joseph's Hospital during August was 1,382.

This is an increase of 46 over July but still fewer than the record number treated during the same period last year.

Of the total number in August 1,225 were treated and released and 157 were admitted as in-patients.

Twenty-eight of those treated were victims of traffic accidents as compared with 52 for July. Half of the total number required minor surgery.

These cases are now treated in a department which has only one emergency surgery unit and two observation beds. Plans are under way to expand the department to include 10 beds and one more surgery.

Wishful thinking is not my specialty, and from this viewing post, it seems most unlikely that British Columbia Social Credit's Cinderella coach will turn back into a pumpkin after the September 30 ball.

By the same token . . . and feel free to remind me later if my guess proves wrong . . . I believe the Progressive Conservative attempt to wedge a toe in the glass slipper is foredoomed.

Not one seat do I give them in my scratch-pad handiwork, and this in spite of Davie Fulton's heavily-publicized bid to oust Highway Minister Gagliardi from his Kamloops riding. The line between good generalship and fatal rashness is narrow; and to my mind, our Conservatives have merely given us yet another example of the political coup that doesn't come off.

The fact that Mr. Fulton was a federal choice, I see as a detriment rather than an aid to his chances of landing a provincial seat, and his probable fate a drop into a political limbo from which he may not emerge for a good few years.

The choice of Kamloops was sheer folly, and in any riding save South Okanagan, Davie Fulton's prospects might have been better.

So, studying the tea-leaf pattern, I give the Progressive Conservatives no seats in our new Provincial Legislature, and in spite of Opposition Leader Strachan's shrewd campaign, see the NDP position as likely to remain virtually unchanged. The New Democratic Party has its strongholds, and these it will probably retain. At worst, I suggest, a one-seat loss, and at best, a two-seat gain.

We cope now to our little Liberal band, and if I weren't saving my betting money for Sandown, there are two Liberal noses on which I'd place a modest wager.

The first belongs to Mike Griffin, whose nomination in Victoria City seems assured.

Politically, I think Mr. Griffin is now ready for a shot at the provincial House. His term as alderman was good schooling, and while not all of his notions jell, he has shown that he can be counted upon to make himself heard.

A group as small as our Liberal bloc—five members in the last assembly—can't afford back benchers. It was lucky in Dr. Pat McGeer, his last acquisition, and Mr. Griffin would be a useful gain for the team.

Vancouver's vigorous Mayor Rathie is the other Liberal contender to watch. Admittedly, he goes in against strong competition—so formidable, in fact, that here we're betting on a longshot. Still, his candidacy makes a great deal more sense to me than does Davie Fulton's, and it wouldn't surprise me to see Mr. Rathie duplicate the McGeer feat of confounding the Socreds in a key riding.

But as I pointed out at the start of this prognostication, it would be an unrealistic turning away from the evidence to expect any drastic change in British Columbia's overall, long-range political picture.

For better or worse, I'm convinced we'll have our brilliantly enigmatic Premier William Andrew Cecil Bennett with us for a long time to come.

This hurts, since I personally remain cool toward Social Credit and most of its works. But the simple fact is that no rival party shows promise of fielding a leader of Mr. Bennett's stature.

Nor does his own party. Without him at its head, I suspect that the B.C. version of this never-explained mystique which calls itself Social Credit would crumble no less abruptly than it rose from the ashes of the wartime Liberal-Conservative coalition.

The issue in this token election is not Medicare, now in one form or other inevitable for our province, or the near-chaotic state of federal Social Credit.

It is, simply, whether Mr. Bennett rates a vote of confidence . . . and deserve it or not, I predict Mr. Bennett will receive it.

Dr. Gordon Fields, head of the biology department and Dr. Arthur Fontaine, associate professor, gave papers.

The new field secretary for the Victoria branch of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, William Tymchuk, was introduced to members of the White Cane Club at the first fall meeting.

President Mrs. E. Watling conducted the meeting and five new members were welcomed. Vocalists Mr. and Mrs. J. Smith entertained members, accompanied by Mrs. Ship.

VICTORIA'S FIRST SUMMER FESTIVAL

Four Weeks of Shows in 1964 Program

Victorians and summer visitors will be able to enjoy four weeks of music and drama next summer in the capital's first summer festival.

The Festival Theatre Society's presentation and launch of its campaign for funds took place at the Imperial Inn Wednesday evening before an invited group representing city, business, press and communications media.

The Festival Theatre Society, now formulating plans for the festival, hopes it will become an annual event.

Minimum cost of the planned high-standard production line-up is $43,700, and all profits will be plowed back into improvement and extension of succeeding festivals.

Society president Mrs. Audrey Johnson said the festival could be an answer to the complaint that summer visitors do not stay in the city more than a day.

"As our festival's reputation grows—as grow it will—it in itself will be the means of attracting visitors from all parts of the North American continent," she said.

A 20-piece orchestra under the direction of James M. Gayfer will be formed and go into rehearsal this year.

With a tentative opening date in July or August, the opening production will probably be Strauss' comic opera "Die Fledermaus."

Allan Purdy, program co-ordinator and administrator, said there would be no extravagance, but "the emphasis will be upon fine acting and excellent costumes."

Other productions considered include a "Peter and the Wolf" type presentation for children, possible lunch-hour concerts and a mysteriously-titled surprise package "Vintage 99," described by Mr. Purdy as "a type of musical comedy."

Mrs. Johnson said the festival is being conceived in a flexible form with a view to the eventual emergence of an individuality that will make it unique on the North American continent.

She sees more "classical or avant garde events as demand and funds warrant" in the future.

LOST LAST HOUR PUZZLES POLICE

What happened during George Down's last hour? City detectives have traced the movements of the murdered 17-year-old delivery boy to 12:20 a.m. of Aug. 30, an hour before he was bludgeoned to death in the Hudson's Bay parkade.

Now they are anxious to interview anyone who saw Down on the night of Aug. 29 or the early morning of Aug. 30—particularly during that critical hour after 12:20.

They want to talk with anyone who has any knowledge of first-hand or second-hand, of what Down might have been doing in that time.

Detective Inspector Charles Webb emphasized today that anyone volunteering information will be protected, and that confidences will be respected.

Police Chief J. F. Gregory, who took office this week in the midst of the investigation, told The Times that every available man has been assigned to the case.

Down was last seen near the city hall, and he said at that time that he was going to the Hudson's Bay Co. There the trail ends.

New Stores Get Traffic Signals To Avoid Jams

Traffic signals are expected to go up next week on Douglas at the Mayfair Shopping Plaza. Preliminary work is under way for installation of the signals at Finlayson and Douglas, including pedestrian "walk-don't walk" signs.

An extended green signal will be arranged for south-bound traffic making left turns onto Finlayson.

DID YOU SEE this youth last Thursday night or Friday morning? At request of city police the Times is reprinting the picture of Gordon Down, victim of a brutal slaying in the Hudson Bay Co. parkade.

Police, facing almost a blank wall in their enquiries, are hoping someone can come forward with a clue.

Logging Firm's Slash Fire Out of Control

Fire is racing unchecked across 500 acres of forest in the Muir Creek area this afternoon.

The blaze started Wednesday as a controlled burn, but high winds at 4 p.m. sent it leaping across a 264-yard break into slash and snags. It is on property of the Canadian Puget Sound Lumber and Timber Company.

With smoke blurring the sky over Victoria, company men fought through the night over a 200-acre area.

However, the fire sped on and 60 company men are now working with heavy equipment around the devastated area.

A water bomber has been called in, and B.C. Forest Service rangers are on the spot. No forest service firefighters have been called in yet.

'Socreds Will Wipe Out All But a Few NDPs'

A Socred sweep that would leave only a handful of New Democrats in opposition was today's provincial election prediction by Premier W. A. C. Bennett.

"The NDP will lose seats. The Liberals and Conservatives will elect no members," Mr. Bennett said.

He said Social Credit would defeat Liberal Alan Macfarlane in Oak Bay, Liberal leader Ray Perrault in North Vancouver, Harry McKay in Fernie, and Vancouver Mayor William Pattison in Point Grey.

He described the Liberals and Tories as only "splinter parties" in the current election.

His first campaign journey . . . week, leaving Vancouver . . . a PGE train Tuesday.

He will make a "non-partisan" speech to the Union of B.C. Municipalities at Dawson Creek, Sept. 12, then open his campaign proper at Fort St. John on Friday the 13th.

On Sept. 15, he will address a meeting at Quesnel.

Then he will return to the coast by PGE to speak Sept. 15 in West Vancouver.

He will then spend some time campaigning in the lower mainland area. Details of this and later plans are not prepared, Mr. Bennett said.

Mr. Bennett said Social Credit does not need a long campaign to win the election Sept. 30.

"I believe the best campaign is that you've done over the years."

"It doesn't take a long period to tell the story. Our story of course will be what we plan for the next seven years."

Mr. Bennett said he was "disappointed" but not surprised that former legislative speaker Hugh Shantz was not running again for Social Credit.

He emphatically denied that Prince Rupert member William Murray will back out, too.

TWO-WAY FIGHT

"The issue in this election is genuine free enterprise of the Social Credit party against the socialist NDP," he said.

This is the issue on which he fought the 1960 election.

Mr. Bennett said he still is not ready to release the Social Credit election Manifesto, promised two weeks ago to outline a new seven-year program.

"I'll release it as I go in my speeches. The final manifesto will be released later," he said.

The premier will head for his Kelowna home today to spend his 53rd birthday Friday with his family.

His South Okanagan nomination convention is Saturday.

Mr. Bennett said he will make

Hope Does Scene 'Road to Island'

Comedian Bob Hope is enjoying "triple exposure" in the Vancouver Island area this week.

His newest movie, "Call Me Bwana," is playing at a local theatre.

His best-selling book, "I Owe Russia $1200," is doing a brisk business on downtown stalls. (He attended an autographing party in Vancouver earlier this week.)

And Bob, with his family, is on a combined fishing-golfing holiday near Campbell River.

As he did a year ago, Hope is travelling in the private yacht of Max Bell, chairman of FP newspapers.

STAMPED CALGARY

(A few weeks ago, Hope responded to an invitation from Bell to act as Grand Marshall of the Calgary Stampede, flying in from California for a one-day appearance.)

With Hope on his current junket are his daughters Linda, 24, Nora, 17, and son Kelly, 16.

Linda wants to be a film director. Nora is bent on a career in nursing. Son Kelly is in a parochial school in California and hasn't yet decided on a career.

Linda told Vancouver reporters, with pride, that her father will soon go to Washington, D.C., to receive a medal of merit.

"Only two other entertainers have received it," she said.

Hope will cruise the waters off Vancouver Island, looking for the big salmon at April Point and Stuart Island.

But Victoria golfers are bracing themselves for a drop in visit from the star, who plays in the high 70s and had a game last year with pro Laurie Carroll.

"I just love that Oak Bay course," Hope told Valerie Druce of this city when he autographed a book for her in Vancouver on Tuesday.

Given Break, Muffs Chance, Goes to Jail

A Victoria man who won a "break" from a police officer and threw it away within the hour was sent to jail today for 41 days.

Armand De Roche, 1335 Stanley Avenue, was sentenced to 21 days for impaired driving and a further 20 days for driving while his licence was suspended.

Magistrate William Oster, who levied the consecutive sentences after De Roche pleaded guilty to both charges in Saanich court, said his actions were "incredible."

Const. William Chisholm testified he stopped De Roche at 12:25 this morning after seeing his car weaving north on Douglas.

The officer testified De Roche appeared impaired but pleaded for a break, claiming he had never driven in that condition before, had four children and might lose his job.

Const. Chisholm sent him home in a taxi and another police officer drove De Roche's car home.

Only 55 minutes later, Const. Chisholm stopped De Roche again while driving his car "and still in the same condition."

ELECTION NOTEBOOK

Premier Will Let Any Party Quote From His Books

Hundreds of copies of government publications printed at public expense are being handed out by Social Credit election candidates.

But, says Premier Bennett, he is willing to hand out the booklets to any political party for election use.

The books are the 1963 budget speech and the midsummer economic review of provincial resources.

Four cartons of budgets have been shipped from the premier's office to Vancouver Socred headquarters. Saanich Socred candidate John Tisdalle has distributed several cartons of economic reviews among campaign workers, telling them to go door-to-door and give them to voters.

The books are printed by the Queen's Printer. An official said they could only be distributed through the finance department. A finance official said they can only be ordered by the premier.

The premier says: "They are available to anybody who wants them, any party that wants them—as long as the supply is available."

"This is all factual stuff, not political," he said. "It is the work of accountants and civil servants."

"Sure, we are anxious for every member of the public to know these things about their province."

He said Mr. Tisdalle got some copies that were "left over in my office."

"But any former MLA or any candidate can get any amount of them. This is not party literature."

What ever happened to all those Impressive Conservative candidates that were being lined up here?

In Esquimalt Wednesday night the nominating convention collapsed without one.

In Victoria, Oak Bay and Saanich not a single name has been advanced.

Leader Davie Fulton made a special trip to line them up, held interviews with a number of prominent local men, but failed to come up with any commitments.

Former members of two other parties are helping the Socreds campaign in Oak Bay against Liberal Alan Macfarlane.

One-time Tory candidate Justin Harbord is managing the campaign for Dr. Charles Ennals, and ex-Liberal Geoffrey Ellis is assistant manager.

The Socreds have run into a squall in Burnaby, where they had hoped to win a seat from the NDP.

Unsuccessful nominee Dr. H. H. Beyerstein demanded a new nominating convention, charging many delegates were denied a vote. "The meeting ended in a shambles, some were on the verge of fist-fights," he said.

The candidates so far are James Mason and Mrs. Dorothy Munnik.

A Lion is in the field for the Socreds in North Vancouver.

Herb Capozzi, general manager of the B.C. Lions football team, says he'll seek the nomination Tuesday to tackle Liberals Ray Perrault and Gordon Gibson, previous holders of the two seats there.

The campaign chests are bare and the treasure hunt is on for funds to fight the election campaign.

NDP secretary Ernest Hall says his party will seek funds from trade unions and other provinces after the "terrible drain" of two federal elections and recent B.C. byelections.

Oak Bay Socreds are campaigning on a pay-as-you-go basis because the local association is still in debt, according to treasurer James Audain.

More nominations: Frank Becker, Liberal, North Okanagan; Ken Rutherford, NDP, Fort George; Donald Brothers, Socred, Rossland; Trail; Jack Luckhurst, Conservative, Alberni; Dr. John Norris (son of the judge) and Fred Vuillamy, NDP, Vancouver Centre; Art Phillips, Mayor William Rathie and Dr. Pat McGeer, Liberal, Vancouver Point Grey; Mrs. Isobel Potecary, NDP, North Okanagan; Felix Kohnke, Liberal, Cariboo; Burt Campbell, Socred, Kaslo-Slocan; Alex Matthew and Education Minister Leslie Peterson, Socred, Vancouver Centre.

Tonight's local nominating conventions:

Victoria Socreds, 8 p.m., Club Sirocco; Esquimalt Liberals, 8 p.m., Buffalo Hall, Langford; Victoria New Democrats, 8 p.m., Woodsworth Hall; Esquimalt Socreds, 8 p.m., Colwood Community Hall.

Gold Mine of Old Amid a Touch of New

By PENNY SAVER

If you are a lover of antiques and unusual jewelry, the shop I was in the other day will be a gold mine to you. Not only are the items authentically old and unique, they are individually priced according to their own value.

Dealing in imported merchandise, this shop carries articles from Europe, the Middle East and the Far East.

Examples of Oriental art are found in Japanese tapestries, and Chinese Mandarin skirts which are hand-embroidered on silk.

Amid several pieces of Damascene art (an art which dates back to around 500 AD) you may spot hand-made mirror backs or hand-painted, leather book covers.

Vases of another ancient art, that of molding papier mache, are skillfully arrayed on shelves lining the walls.

Glass cases on either side of the room are lighted to capture the glow of the fine display of jewelry, much of which is hand-made.

Anyone who appreciates the qualities of a fine cameo (which incidentally does not refer to a kind of stone, but to the art of carving on an unraised surface such as that of a shell) may make a choice from various styles.

Along with this store of genuine antiques, are manufactured items for the person who is wary of the fragility of the "real thing."

If you would like to purchase from this shop or if you would just like to browse around, phone Penny at 382-3131.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Keep Your Neck From Shouting Out Your Age

There is no doubt about it: A woman's neck is often the first spot to tell her age. If she has taken good care of her complexion and cleansed and lubricated it daily, the chances are that she will not have crow's-feet at the corners of her eyes or a wrinkled face.

Too often women who use the right creams on their face neglect their neck. The neck is exposed to the hazards of the weather just as the face is, and cries for the same sort of care. Then of course there are other factors in the decline of the chinline. Posture is most important. If you habitually allow your chin to sink into your neck, or lead with it by pushing it forward, you are in trouble. As a habit try to remember to hold your chin parallel to the floor. Do not push forward with it, but do push toward the ceiling with the top of your head.

The neck shortens as a woman grows older and the muscles under the chin may become tense and drawn. One older woman I met who had a beautiful youthful neckline did the following exercise every single night before going to sleep:

Lower your head backward as far as you can. Lift your head to upright position. Continue. Do this slowly, feeling the pull underneath the chin.

Another good one: Make circles with your head. Make these as complete as possible. This exercise makes some women dizzy. To avoid this, circle first in one direction and then the other.

Exercise stirs up circulation. If your neck is sallow, you may find the use of a circulation cream also helpful. Practically all well-known cosmetic houses have one.

If you would like to have my free leaflet concerning the chinline, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet number 10 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

CONFIDENTIALLY YOURS

MONTREAL, September 5th—Would you deny your children a university education? Not willingly, of course... but many parents find the financial burden prohibitive. That's why the BANK OF MONTREAL has introduced its University Education Programme. Under this comprehensive, life-insured plan you begin payments two or three years before your children enter university and spread them over as many as nine years. If you have a boy or girl in high school, and you foresee financial problems, I suggest you talk to the people at "My Bank" soon about their University Education Programme.

MADE SPECIALLY FOR US WOMEN because it's so mild yet effective... CORRECTOL is definitely my choice of laxatives. Developed by Pharmaco (Canada) Ltd., Correctol is so gentle it's recommended even after childbirth. Its secret?—a non-laxative regulator that makes its action prompt yet unobtrusive. Correctol helps Nature help you to maintain regularity. Do try it, I'm sure you'll agree that it's effective.

HERE IS WONDERFUL NEWS for all of you who suffer from neuritic, arthritic or rheumatic pain! I have many, many grateful letters telling me about the longed for relief TEMPLETON'S TRC's give to those who suffer from such pain. Do your joints and muscles ache so that it is hard to get about... or hard to sleep at night? Then try TRC's! And for double action relief, apply TEMPLETON'S ELAME-cream Liniment externally when you take TRC's internally. I'm sure you'll experience the same welcome relief that my letter-writing friends now enjoy!

THE VEGETABLE PART OF YOUR MEALS is no problem once you've discovered LIBBY'S SAUER-KRAUT. Always crisp, mellow and 'just-right' in taste, low-cost Libby's is the meal-getter's friend. Serve it hot with meats, cold in salads—or like this:

1 16-oz. can (1½ cups) Libby's Sauerkraut
2 tablespoons bacon fat or butter
1 tablespoon caraway seeds 1 large potato

Place sauerkraut, water, bacon fat and caraway seeds in a saucepan. Boil rapidly until most of the water is evaporated. Peel and grate potato and add to sauerkraut. Cover and simmer gently until potato is cooked, 5 servings.

I'D LIKE TO TELL YOU about a wash-day "wonder-worker" that I, personally, consider a must for a naturally soft, really clean wash... CALGON water conditioner. Not a soap—not a detergent... it does something in the washer that neither soap nor a detergent can do. It actually cleans away soaping film—the "bathtub ring" of the washer. Add Calgon, with less of your favourite soap or detergent, and see the difference! Soaps and detergents can't get rid of soaping film. (In fact, they cause it!) Even bleach won't dissolve it. But Calgon water conditioner gets rid of soaping film just... like... that!

Repent In Leisure!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My 16-year-old daughter eloped with a 23-year-old boy, and when I say BOY I don't mean MAN. When they came home we forgave them and planned a nice church wedding for them. We thought everything was going along fine when, the night before the church wedding was to take place, the boy ran off and left a note saying it was "better" this way. My daughter says she doesn't know why he ran off. She made us stop trying to locate him as she says she doesn't ever want to see him again. (Neither do we.)

It has been only three weeks since their elopement. Is my daughter eligible for a prenuptial or must she go through a divorce? What should we do with the wedding presents?

HER MOTHER.

DEAR MOTHER: A lawyer can help you. Under the circumstances, return ALL the wedding presents.

DEAR ABBY: I met a man who I thought was nice. When he asked me how old I was I told him the truth. Then he asked me if I'd mind settling my age back a few years. I told him I wouldn't do it. Then he came right out and said if I didn't set my age back we were through. Was I wrong in refusing him that request, or do you think he was just looking for an excuse to get rid of me? FIFTY AND HONEST.

DEAR FIFTY: I won't libel used car salesmen by making comparisons. But this man has more shallow pride than the stuff of a good husband. And if he urges you to deceive others by tampering with your chronological speedometer, he is probably not above deceiving you as well. Lose him.

DEAR ABBY: I own a small apartment building. One of my tenants makes a habit of visiting one of the other tenants

"Dear Eunice:

"I have just begun sewing and my buttonholes are frayed when I cut them. Please help me, as this ruins the garment's appearance!" MISS V.A.M.

Dear Miss V.A.M.: I imagine you are referring to machine-made buttonholes. The problem could be one of two things. First, perhaps there is not quite enough space between the two rows of stitching (all attachments have a way of regulating this), and the other reason for this could be that you didn't go over the buttonhole TWICE. This second stitching will give a stronger edge that should prevent pulling and ripping.

BETWEEN OURSELVES

Hawaii's First Lady of Song Will Steal Your Hearts Away

By Elizabeth Forbes

A little over two years ago I spent a short time in Honolulu. It was a conducted tour arranged by the Matson Steamship Lines, and with four other women's editors from newspapers in Vancouver, Victoria and Seattle.

We saw Honolulu by day and by night. We were wined and dined. We went swimming, rode the surf in outrigger canoes and we sailed in a catamaran.

Today, I have two outstanding memories of those eventful days.

One is of the beach boys in their colorful swim trunks standing upright on the prows of the catamarans. Their brown bodies, perfectly balanced, were etched against an aquamarine sea.

Royal Hawaiian Hotel during an after-dinner floor show. Many other Victorians have also heard her sing there or on the radio show "Hawaii Calls."

Next Monday evening Haunani Kahalawai will be in Victoria and her lovely voice will be heard at two shows in the Empress Hotel.

HERE WITH TROUPE

With her will be Mate Ng, a talented Tahitian dancer; Fanene, a fire walker; Lawrence Rodrigues, another singing star; Beverley Noa, a solo hula dancer and three chorus girls well trained in the hula.

If you are lucky enough to attend either of these performances I'll wager Haunani Kahalawai will steal your hearts.

She loves to sing and she has been doing it professionally ever since Webley Edwards, founder and producer of "Hawaii Calls" gave her a first chance shortly after she graduated from high school. It was not long after that until she signed her first recording contract.

She has been a guest with the Honolulu Symphony Orchestra, and when she appeared with this group on the island of Kauai and in Honolulu, all attendance records were broken.

She was also the only Hawaiian singer selected to perform for Her Majesty the Queen during a brief stop recently in Honolulu.

VELVET-SOFT VOICE

The second is an Hawaiian singer, tall and statuesque. She wore a flower-splashed holomu, form-fitting, floor-length and with a graceful train. She had the regal manner I had always dreamed of in Hawaiians. And her contralto voice was velvet soft and clear.

Her name was Haunani Kahalawai and they called her Hawaii's first lady of song.

We heard her sing at the Empress Hotel during an after-dinner floor show. Many other Victorians have also heard her sing there or on the radio show "Hawaii Calls."

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Callow celebrate golden wedding day

A Reception Saturday

Honoring Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Callow on their 50th wedding anniversary a reception will be held for relatives and friends on Saturday from 2 to 5 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Callow, 948 St. Patrick Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Callow were married in St. John's Anglican Church on September 6, 1913. Mr. Callow was a postal employee in Victoria for 45 years prior to his retirement six years ago.

Family members attending the celebration will include a son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Glover with their children Cathy and Lori, from Comox; a son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George Callow with David and Andrea from Vancouver, and three sons and their families of Victoria, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Callow Jr., with Richard and Neil; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Callow with Gordon and Roseanne, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Callow with Barbara and Donald. Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Callow will also be here from Seattle.

Miss Bobbi James, right, and Miss Sharon Hamman, both of Sidney, left New York today in the St. Francis for an extended holiday in Europe. Miss Hamman is a graduate of St. Ann's Academy and Miss James has just completed teaching training at Victoria College. She was a tourist counsellor on the "Queen of Esquimalt" for the summer. Both girls were 1962 debutantes at the United Services Institution of Vancouver Island ball in the Empress Hotel.

Festival Theatre Reception

Audrey St. Denis Johnson, president of the Festival Theatre Society, was hostess Wednesday at an early-evening gathering in the Imperial Suite at the Imperial Inn, arranged to present the society's plan for a 1964 summer festival of the performing arts in Victoria.

Double Rings Exchanged

Vows were recently exchanged between Donna Elizabeth van Adrichem, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. van Adrichem, Brentwood Bay, and William James Boothman, son of Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Boothman of Vancouver. White and yellow gladioli and white dahlias decorated St. Matthias' Church for the double-ring ceremony.

Rev. C. Venables officiated. Organ was played by Mrs. Venables.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length, strapless gown of English peau de soie with bell-shaped skirt and detachable train. The carmole bodice featured lily point sleeves. A white sequined tiara held her elbow-length silk illusion veil.

Maid of honor, Diana van Adrichem wore blue and green shot organza over light blue taffeta. Bridesmaids, Carol McCartney and Diane Tennant were gowned in similar dresses with blue and green floral nylon chiffon over blue taffeta. All wore light blue whimsies and carried white marguerites and ivy.

Leslie Soleway was best man, and Bill Tennant and Ted Lavis were ushers. All were from Vancouver.

At a reception in the Carlton Club, a three-tier wedding cake topped with a Dresden bride and groom and flanked by red roses, centred the head table. The bride's uncle, M. van Adrichem proposed the toast.

Leaving on a honeymoon trip to Oregon, the bride wore a pink wool-gait with matching floral hat and white accessories. Her corsage was white glamelias.

The couple is now living at 1250 Richardson Street.

Foster-Pederson Vows

Archdeacon R. B. Horsefield heard the vows at Mesachie Lake Anglican Church that united Patricia Evelyn Pedersen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. C. Pedersen of Lake Cowichan and George Brian Foster, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Foster of Hollistone, Ruleholme, Carlisle, Eng. Mrs. Olin Anderson played wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a ball-length gown of white satin brocade, styled with sweetheart neckline, glove length sleeves and softly gathered skirt, highlighted at waist with two bridal roses.

The bouffant veil was held with a coronet of nylon sheer, edged in pearls. Talisman roses were in her bouquet.

Sky blue gowns of nylon sheer over taffeta complemented with Ming baskets of pink carnations were chosen by matron of honor, Mrs. A. Kryzanowski and junior bridesmaid, Miss Alvida Pedersen, the bride's sisters. Mrs. Kryzanowski sang at the wedding and reception which followed at Mesachie Lake Community Hall.

Paul Weber was best man and ushering guests was William Blacklock.

Archdeacon Horsefield was master of ceremonies at the reception. Robert Lee, an old friend of the bride's family, proposed the toast. White and mauve gladioli, candles and pink and blue dahlia garlands decorated the head table.

As her going-away outfit the bride chose a white lace sheath, topped with a turquoise coat, white accessories and pink rose corsage.

AT SWEET SIXTEEN

"THE LOOK" is Sportive, Sultry

"The Look" in Sweet Sixteen's Fall Fashions is really to look, one, sportive and casual, the other, sultry and sophisticated. Fashion demands for the sportive is on fine tailoring and fabrics such as herring bones and tweeds, used in contrast with very feminine accents such as the soft touch of lush fur.

The sultry and sophisticated look is reflected by curve-conscious after-five fashions in elegant fabrics . . . and by the sumptuous styling in luxurious man-made furs.

Whether sportive or sophisticated one thing is outstanding about "The Look" at Sweet Sixteen this season . . .

It is definitely Fall '63, new looking and fresh, with a fashion impact you'll love.

Kinettes Ready for Fall Fair

The biggest baby-sitting bill in town will be paid by the Victoria Kinmen's club this month — and they won't mind a bit!

From the time the second annual Victoria Kinmen's Fair begins on Monday, September 16, to its close on the following Saturday, the club will be underwriting hours of baby-sitting and loving it.

The debit side item will allow the 20 members of the Victoria Kinettes to do their part at the fair, to be held at the Esquimalt Sports Centre. Says president, Mrs. Ken R. Phillips, "We will man the domestic arts section all week and look after the hobby displays for the last three days."

Co-ordinating women's activities with Mrs. Phillips will be the club's secretary, Mrs. L. Barkley.

The Kinettes are not waiting for the 16th before swinging into action. Already they have mailed 800 prize lists to prospective entrants.

Some of the entrants may have been surprised to receive these with postmarks from Vancouver, Nanaimo, Shawigan Lake and other spots.

"But," explains Mrs. Phillips, "the girls managed to get these out during the summer holidays, many of them addressing them in the family car and mailing them at the next holiday stop."

Another gigantic mailing job was the making out of entry tags which have been sent to all exhibitors.

During fair week the local Kinettes will add color to the fair, as they carry out duties in smart white straw boaters that sport gold headbands to match their hanners. Vic-Van Isle Kinettes and Sidney Kinettes will also be pitching in.

All of these women are prepared to take on any job. Last year, Mrs. Barkley found herself acting as secretary for the judges in the cattle ring.

"Being a city girl, I didn't feel too comfortable with those huge bulls snorting so close to me."

But even this experience doesn't stop her from joining her Kinette pals in insisting that they "wouldn't miss the fair for anything."

Planning committee for the Victoria Choral Society luncheon in Hudson's Bay Douglas Room on Tuesday from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., includes from the left: Mrs. G. M. Bennett, subscription chairman; Miss Pamela Paver, tickets; Mrs. Rodney Webster and Mrs. Enid Webster, general conveners. There will be a home cooking stall. Proceeds will assist with the society's two presentations of "The Messiah" in December.

A new book "The West Coast of Vancouver Island," was presented to the library by the author, Major A. S. Nicholson.

Sale of dogwood pins and earrings since April amounted to $456.95, it was announced by Mrs. F. T. S. Schl and Mrs. Jarvis reported that 23 birthday parties for veterans had been celebrated. Report was also given by Mrs. F. R. Roberts on sympathy cards sent to veterans.

Mr. and Mrs. William F. Happich, Jr., who have been visiting in Victoria recently from Jenkintown, Pa., the guests of Mr. Paul Schmeitz, 322 West Gorge Road, have now left to return to their home. They are both in the employ of the United States government at Philadelphia.

Mr. Happich's father, a violinist, was professor of music at University of Pennsylvania.

Wed Here, to Live in England

Following a honeymoon in the States, Mr. and Mrs. Robin Gurney Charlwood will leave by air from New York for England where the groom will take up new engineering duties at Ironbridge in Shropshire.

Rev. C. H. Butler officiated at the ceremony in St. George the Martyr Church, Cadboro Bay, which united Diane Somerset Harris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. S. Harris, 2860 Seaview Road, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Charlwood of Crawley, Sussex, England.

Entering the church on her father's arm, the bride was lovely in a floor-length gown of white silk brocade, styled on slim lines with sweetheart neckline and lily point sleeves. Her veil was shoulder length and salmon pink gladiol and ivy were in her bouquet.

The choir sang during signing of the register.

Only attendant was Miss Carol Heyd, who wore a muted peacock blue sheath gown and bolero with toning pillbox hat and shoes. She carried miniature bouquet of tiny gladiol similar to the bride's.

Derek Harris was best man and ushering guests to their pews were William Selwood and Walter Hitchcock Jr.

John Dreon proposed the toast to the bride at a reception in Royal Victoria Yacht Club. White candles in silver candelabra flanked the three-tier wedding cake on the head table.

Leaving on honeymoon, the bride wore an English wool dressmaker suit in American Beauty shade, navy blue straw picture hat and navy accessories.

New School Emulates 'Tower of Babel'

By RAY SINCLAIR

If 20 foreigners due in Victoria within the next month can't speak a word of English to the young Canadians they will teach, so much the better.

That's the opinion of Marcel Mallinger, a 24-year-old Frenchman who plans to make Victorians of all ages fluent in any tongue from French to Chinese in just 120 sessions at his new school.

Mr. Mallinger expects to open his new school in downtown Victoria within three weeks, and instructors in about 20 languages will use a direct conversational method.

"All teachers will be teaching their own tongue," he said.

"It's all the better if they don't speak English."

This excludes himself from all but French.

SPEAKS 12 TONGUES

"I speak 12 languages," said the young graduate of France's University of Nancy. "At 10 years of age I spoke six. I lived at Rouen, a cosmopolitan, industrial city with a tremendous influx of East European immigrants."

"I learned the languages the way I am now to teach them."

Mr. Mallinger's method is for the instructor to speak nothing but the language he is teaching.

Mr. Mallinger said the instructor identifies just three objects.

STEP BY STEP

"Once the student is familiar with their names, he is introduced to the verb 'to be.' Then comes three adjectives, generally of color."

"From then, he can form his own sentences."

Mr. Mallinger said the vocabulary is extended, idioms are introduced—all without a word of English—"and after 120 40-minute sessions, the student can speak the language fluently, because he thinks in the language."

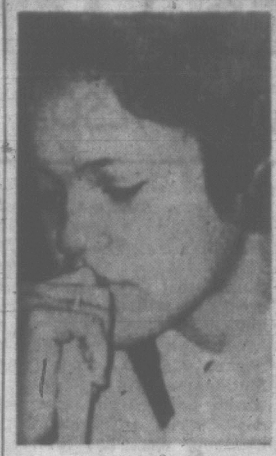

Courses will be open to anyone from five years of age, individually or in very small classes.

Mr. Mallinger believes Victoria has excellent potential for such a school, and claims no other method of language teaching here is adequate for fluency.

He also believes Victoria is a fine place to live. After having spent four years in Canada he says: "I'm going to settle here."

And at present he's busy rounding-up his instructors (preferably non-English speaking) to join him in this part of the world.

NEGRO, WHITE

Marriage Declared Void

ATLANTA (AP)—The marriage of Charlayne Hunter, first Negro girl to enter and graduate from the University of Georgia, to a white southerner is void in Georgia, says Attorney-General Eugene Cook.

Miss Hunter, 21, disclosed Monday in New York that she secretly married Walter Stovall, 25, of Douglas, Ga., last spring. She said they are expecting a child in December.

UNLAWFUL

"They are not married under Georgia law," Cook said Tuesday. "It's unlawful for a white person to marry anyone except a white person, and any marriage in violation of this law shall be void."

Cook said any marriage solemnized in another state by "parties intending at the time to reside in this state" shall have the same legal consequences as though it were solemnized in Georgia.

GRAND JURY

The attorney-general said he is investigating to ascertain where the marriage took place. He said he would submit his findings to the solicitor-general and a grand jury to determine whether the couple may have lived in violation of Georgia's criminal law.

Meanwhile, university officials expressed shock at the marriage. University President O. C. Aderhold said that neither of them would be permitted to enter the university again.

'Satisfaction' of Job Holds Social Worker

VANCOUVER (CP)—Social worker James B. Thomson, hired by the city Tuesday as a social work consultant in the health department, will start his new job at $1 a month more than a power shovel operator.

"Money isn't everything. It's the satisfaction one gets out of a job that counts," he said.

Mr. Thomson, 38, who has three university degrees, will start at $508 a month compared to $507 for a shovel operator who has no degrees.

He is now employed in the psychiatric wing at Vancouver General Hospital and says his salary is "something less" than he will be making with the city.

"In social work there are intangible fringe benefits, such as seeing a change in people when you can help them with personal and social problems," he said.

"As long as social workers get enough for a middle class standard of living, I don't think they should complain about being underpaid."

Mr. Thomson has degrees of bachelor of science from McGill University, bachelor of social work from the University of Toronto and master of social work from the University of B.C.

He is married to a former public health nurse he met while working in Toronto and has two young boys.

His past jobs have been with the Children's Aid Society, John Howard Society, family service agency, Crease Clinic and in medical social work. He has also travelled in Europe and studied social problems there.

LIFETIME TO BE SPENT SEEKING TOMB

AMMAN, Jordan (AP)—Archaeologist Julio Ripamonti said today he plans to spend the rest of his life digging in the wilderness around Devil's Ravine with hopes of finding Moses' tomb.

Ripamonti, professor at the Central University of Venezuela, recently returned after a 50-day expedition to the ravine, at the foot of a hill named Roujoum Makhayyat, 20 miles south of Amman.

Ripamonti believed the hill, highest in the area, could be Mount Pisgah, from which the Bible says God showed Moses the Promised Land. Moses died before reaching the Promised Land and according to the Bible was buried in a valley.

Ripamonti believes Devil's Ravine may be the valley.

Plea for Team Work By Dean of Medicine

TORONTO (CP)—An end to departmentalization in medical training was urged Wednesday by Dr. John F. McCready, dean of the faculty of medicine at the University of British Columbia.

"We have not taken very seriously the management of a patient beyond that part of his illness which endangered his life or made him actually uncomfortable," he told a graduating class of 52 nurses at Toronto's Hospital for Sick Children.

"Increasingly, we are becoming aware of the fact that we have been doing only part of our job."

He said that if more use is to be made of physical and occupational therapists, social workers, psychologists and sociologists, educational practice will have to be re-oriented to train all the people who work with a patient as a team.

CHOPS A STORY

Hey, Crazy White Man: You Know Jimmy?

By BRUCE LEVETT
CAMPBELL RIVER, B.C. (CP)—Hey, crazy white man. You think you know James Charles King?

Well, you don't.

You see him stand all day in dungarees, sports shirt and red baseball cap, chipping his story into a long cedar pole.

But you don't really know him.

Jimmy King is 64. He is one of the last totem carvers. He chops the story of the whale, the grizzly bear and the man in the sun—the symbols of his clan—into a long cedar pole outside the plush new hotel that commissioned him to stand there in the sun.

And the tourists stop to watch.

"Hey, crazy white man. You going to take my picture?" This is the Jimmy King the tourists see. They ask him the meaning of the faces in his totem and he tells them:

"On top is Indian. Down below is white man. Indian take plenty hair."

ANOTHER SIDE

But speak to the girl on the cash desk in the drug store.

They tell you Jimmy was 12 when he left the reservation at remote Kingcome Inlet to learn the white man's tongue. He returned to carve a totem in memory of King George V to which coastal chieftains journeyed to place wreaths.

In the graveyard at Cape Mudge is a 26-foot pole carved for the great Chief Billy Assu as a headstone for his dead sons.

For seven years, until she died this spring, wherever you saw Jimmy King you saw his wife, whose blood lines to Indian royalty were firm and undisputed.

She was an arthritic and suffered from heart disease. Jimmy pushed her gently everywhere in a wheelchair. They lived in a house filled with children, but when you ask Jimmy how many children they had, he answers:

"Just one—a son." He has three grandchildren.

The others? Indian waifs who wandered across his path.

"And I'm going to keep those kids."

They call him "Mr. King." He calls them "my son" or "my daughter."

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Fat girls are suddenly doing very well in Show Business.

I don't mean Liz Taylor, who's reported getting pudgy. I'm thinking of Miss Totie Fields, the comedienne who calls herself "the Elizabeth Taylor of the Fat Set," and Miss Jenie Jackson, one of Jimmy Durante's partners, who has sensational measurements:

Weight 303... and she's a perfect 38-44-50.

"The fat girls are doing better than the skinny ones," remarked my B.W., who herself is skeletal now, she dieted so effectively.

A certain fat TV lady in fact has decided to eat both crepes suzettes and strawberry cheesecake.

The fatties seem to enjoy life. Totie Fields, a Bostonian, who's been coming on with a rush, with appearances for Ed Sullivan and at the Copacabana, will, of course, deny that she's fat.

"I only weigh 165 and I have the height to carry that weight... I'm five feet tall," she says.

She comes out bouncing zeppelin-like in a white ostrich hat and cape and says, "Since I lost all that weight, I can wear anything. And all the men are crazy about me now."

Totie's spoofing of herself makes the women in audiences love her. She also disarms the critics. They don't need to say she's plump—she's said it herself.

Totie's happily married, and as for Jenie Jackson—well, she's been married several times. And every husband loved every ton of her.

Jenie's out with Jimmy Durante playing State Fairs—Indiana and California—and also just worked in the Gene Kelly-Shirley MacLaine "What a Way to Go"—in which she had to perform in an eating scene.

"I had to eat seven steaks," Jenie just flashed me. "Listen, I love my work," she added, "but by the time I got to the sixth steak—I was ready to break for lunch."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL...

Phil Silvers cracked a lot of baby jokes at a Hollywood TV taping—finally admitted his wife Evelyn Patrick, mother of four girls, is expecting again... The Bobby Darin are apt hunting here... Cy Coleman reported at the Spindletop he's going on tour for weeks with Conductor Billy May to plug an album. George Maharis was offered a top role in the Richard Burton film, "Night of the Iguana."... Rubirosa, busted some ribs in a polo fall in Deauville... Van Johnson's 47, and his touring "Bye Bye Birdie" cast gave him a cake decorated with red sox, the kind he wears.

Work on the new Madison Square Garden, atop Penn Station, starts in October... Author John Steinbeck, whose dog Charlie ("Travels With Charlie") died, has been offered hundreds of puppies by fans... Racing car ace Stirling Moss will call his memoirs "All But My Life."

Paul Lynde sadly turned down the co-starring role with Carol Channing in "Dolly"—his TV series starts soon... Errol Flynn's daughter, Deirdre, will blossom out as a singer.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: It's Troy Gordon's elephant gag: "Why does an elephant eat so much?"... He's trying to forget.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Some experts insist that women are smarter than men. But, asks Hugh Allen, who ever heard of a man wearing a shirt that buttons down the back?

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "Advertising is what makes you think you've longed all your life for something you never heard of before."—Anon.

EARL'S PEARLS: It's been said that women don't care how much their monthly bills add up to, as long as they can mail the check in a postage-paid envelope.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers, and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 30-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of World Book Encyclopedia to Janis Robertson, 12, Visalia, Calif., for her question:

What is a Coypu?

He is a shaggy animal, and you would never mistake him for the glossy mink or the silken sable. But like these well-dressed creatures, the coypu is rated as a valuable fur-bearing animal. Every year thousands of coypu pelts are made into coats and collars, hats and all kinds of fur trimmings.

The native home of the coypu is way down south in South America. There for generations he enjoyed life among the marshy waterways. He is a member of the rat family who enjoys life in the water and along swampy mud flats. The coypu is not a handsome animal, and you would never guess that his shaggy-looking coat is a valuable item in the fur trade.

Mr. Coypu is two feet long, plus a thick tail one foot long. He has a big head, small round ears and a very ratty face. His rodent teeth give him a very fierce expression, and this toothy mouth is set off by a set of stiff, long whiskers. His back feet are webbed for swimming, and his shaggy hair looks somewhat like a raggedy rug.

His coat, however, is far more than what it seems to be. Actually, it is two coats—an undercoat and an overcoat. The undercoat next to his skin is made of short, soft, water-proof fur. The overcoat is made of long, stiff, guard hairs. When he comes from a swim, the tapered tufts of his shaggy overcoat drain off the water, and with a few shakes of his body, the wet coypu becomes a dry coypu.

When his pelt is sent to market, the guard hairs are removed. The soft undercoat is sold as a fur called nutria—which is the name the Spanish gave to the coypu. Nutria is from the Spanish word for otter, and nutria fur is very like the fur of the otter.

Andy sends a 15-inch World Book globe to Kathy Jones, age 11, Cleveland, O., for her question:

Are some stars bigger than our sun?

If the sun were hollow, it could swallow a million earth-sized planets and still have room for dessert. But as stars go, our sun is merely average in size. There are giant stars several hundred times larger than the sun and super-giant stars more than a thousand times larger.

One of the super-giants is Antares, the bright star at the heart of Scorpius. If Antares were to replace our sun, it would spread out beyond the orbit of Mars. The biggest star known is 2,000 times wider than the diameter of the sun. It would reach out beyond Saturn and half-way to the orbit of Uranus.

TEEN-AGE CANADA

What Happened To the Summer?

By JACK HUTTON

Where did it all go? Just yesterday we were making all those plans for the summer, cleaning out the school desk, throwing away the apple cores and packing out the books—or so it seemed.

Remember all those things we were going to do? Never did get around to reading the English books for the next year of school, and never did get fishing either.

This is indeed a woeeful time. Next week the school doors will have clanged shut again, like the creaking dungeon door you hear in late-late TV movies.

But as someone once remarked: "If you can't beat them, join them," and the same thing applies to opening school books again. What plans can you start making now?

Good Start

I've repeated before now the words of a university president who once talked to me about school failures, but they're worth hearing again. Some people I know should frame them for hanging on the study wall.

"Most unsuccessful students don't fail in their final exams," he said. "They fail in the first couple of months. They don't know it, but their final marks are being decided by the way they tackle the first few weeks."

He was talking about the problems of university students—but his remarks apply just as tellingly to the high school student.

What, I asked, are the mistakes that injure a student's progress later on? Are there warning signs that he and his family can both watch out for?

"It's exciting to see old friends whom you may not have seen since the previous June," said the president. "But I would warn the student not to let this interfere with settling into a schedule."

"It's so easy to say 'I can settle down next week. There's plenty of time.' Anyone who says that is wrong, pitifully wrong. There isn't that much time. Christmas exams, believe it or not, are just around the corner."

No Play?

All of this sounded rather glum to me. "Is it against the law for a student to have any fun?" I asked.

"Not at all," he said. "But every student should frame a routine in the first week or two that allows time for both study and fun. The schedule will differ for every student, of course, and should be shaped around the family's needs, too."

"Has the student some place to study or read during the evenings, away from a blaring TV set or radio? It needn't be a large room, just some place with as few distractions as possible."

"This is also the time to set up some form of filing system. I don't mean anything elaborate, just a few folders with notes from different subjects. Keep them in the same drawer, and try to set a good example for yourself for the rest of the year in making out the first pages."

"Is this all there is to it?" I asked. "Will following these hints help that much?"

"It sounds easy," replied the gentleman. "And most people I mention this to reply that it was obvious to them before I spoke. And yet setting up a routine creates a basic attitude toward study that will carry a student through the year."

There's his advice. Have a good weekend—and have a good school year.

Ghosts

I've just seen a sight that chilled my blood—a horror house run as an end-of-the-summer project by several young people.

It closed its doors now after a highly successful two days of operation. But it might be an idea for you later this fall or sometime next summer.

The young businessmen announced a fair—in their block and then proceeded to turn a family garage into the scariest, eeriest horror house I've ever seen. Headless bodies, flying ghosts—they had everything.

How was it done? First, all windows were blocked with cardboard to shut out any light. Long strands of thread were hung from the ceiling by the entrance, looking and feeling for all the world like cobwebs.

Several dolls, already scrapped or ready to be thrown away, were placed in the garage in suitable poses. One was a headless body. A blonde head with staring eyes hung in mid-air. An empty wig lay in one corner.

But the final touch was a ghost that swished through the air. The designers had installed a white sheet on a clothes hanger on an overhead wire. One person, hidden behind a blanket, operated the "ghost" with two pulleys.

You might like to try it.

Dines on Plants

The coypu fools us with his shaggy coat, and he also fools us with his fierce expression. His toothy mouth does not mean that he is a meat eater—far from it. The coypu dines on plants and weeds that grow in and near the water.

Coypu have been taken to live in several other countries where they are set free to multiply and later trapped for their furs. The shaggy water rats from South America thrive in the swampy marshes of Louisiana and New Jersey.

If food is scarce, however, they may leave their swamp lands and raid the nearby crops and vegetable gardens.

Japan to Press for New Markets

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Japanese and Canadian ministers will confer here this month for a review of economic affairs and two-way trade, with the Japanese still determined to obtain greater access to the Canadian markets.

Three Tokyo ministers will come to Canada to meet in Ottawa Sept. 25 and 26 with ministerial representatives of the Canadian cabinet. It will be the second meeting of the Canada-Japan ministerial committee.

Balance of payments problems and the quota system imposed against Japanese exports to this country will be the main topics of discussions. However Canadian spokesmen contend that the Japanese should be in a happier frame of mind because of recent developments.

They cite the fact that the Canadian tariff surcharges applied in June, 1962, has been removed. Second they point out that the negotiated enlargement of quotas for 1963 should please the Japanese.

Finally they quote statistics to show that while Canada in 1962 sold less to Japan this country has increased its purchases from that country.

Bureau of statistics figures show Canada's exports to Japan in 1962 at $214,573,193 and Canada's imports from Japan at $125,358,920. This is a balance in Canada's favor of $89,214,273.

In 1961 Canadian exports to Japan totalled $231,574,353 while imports amounted to

Thus, while sales to Japan dropped by $17,001,100 Canadian purchases from that country climbed by $8,751,560.

Canada in 1953 had a favorable trade ratio of nine to one. In 1954 the gap was reduced to five to one and by 1956 to about two to one. The gap has now been narrowed although Canada still has a sizeable margin in dollar terms.

The question of Pacific fisheries is also expected to be one of the prime subjects under consideration at the conference.

KEEL LAID FOR SCIENCE VESSEL

Keel for the first Canadian vessel designed specifically for marine research was laid at Yarrows Ltd. Wednesday afternoon.

The $4,518,000 ship will operate for the Pacific Naval Laboratory at Esquimalt.

Keel of the ship was declared well and truly laid by Mrs. F. H. Saunders, wife of the superintendent of PNC.

Completion is scheduled for November, 1964.

August Days Got Sun Rays ... But Fewer

The month of August was cooler, drier and had less sunshine than normal, the Victoria city weather office, reported Wednesday.

The mean temperature at 59.4 degrees was .7 degree below normal. The maximum temperature, 78.2 degrees on Aug. 8, was 3.6 degrees under normal. The minimum temperature, 49.9 degrees on Aug. 26.

Precipitation at 35 inches, was 49% of normal—less than half the usual amount, and this fell on five days during the month.

Thunderstorms occurred twice on Aug. 11 and 12. Only 37 thunderstorms had been reported in 64 years, and the storms this month raise this total to 39 in 65 years.

Bright sunshine was only 96% of normal. Total hours of bright sunshine since the first of the year are now 1,631.7 hours, 95.4% of the normal accumulation.

Accumulation of precipitation since Jan. 1 is 9.71 inches, 67.9% of normal.

Average hourly windspeed was below normal, and no gales were reported during the month. Maximum hourly windspeed was 28 m.p.h. from the southwest on Aug. 12, with the peak speed of 40 m.p.h. recorded on that day.

Fogs were reported on five days during the month, on Aug. 12, 20, 21, 24 and 26.

Steam Scalds 30.

NAGASAKI, Japan (AP) — Steaming hot water from underground springs burst from the ground at a hotel construction site Wednesday, burning 30 persons. Police said 10 were in critical condition. The construction site lies at the foot of Mount Unzen, an active volcano near this city.

ONE KILLED, 21 INJURED

3 Schools Closed In Wake of Bombing

Negro Shot

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—A dynamite blast at a Negro leaders home detonated, racial violence that killed one man and injured at least 21 persons Wednesday night in this strife-ridden southern steel city.

Gunfire cracked for more than an hour in the wake of the bombing at the home of Negro lawyer Arthur Shores on Dynamite Hill, where numerous bombings have occurred in recent years.

A Negro, John L. Coley, 20, was shot to death, three bullets in his head and body.

At least two others were wounded by gunfire. The injured included four policemen hit by bricks or other missiles thrown from crowds of Negroes who gathered in the vicinity of the bombing.

Order was restored by about 150 policemen who quickly poured into the area after the blast. It followed within hours disorders among white segregationists protesting the enrolment of Negroes at white schools.

SCHOOLS CLOSE

Alabama's Governor George Wallace meanwhile took a new tack in the schools issue by announcing early today that the city's board of education had agreed at his request to close temporarily three schools that had been scheduled to be desegregated today. Two Negro boys were enrolled at one of the schools Wednesday.

Constance Baker Motley, a lawyer for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said legal action might be taken today to try to reopen the schools.

Wallace's announcement followed a round of conferences that started shortly after the outbreak of violence.

Policemen fired carbines and shotguns over the heads of the yelling, jeering Negroes to disperse them.

Patrolman Warren Wilson's glasses were broken by a brick. Sgt. Herbert Johnson, one of the first on the scene, said he was felled by a brick thrown by Negroes.

One Negro man ran out on a porch and began firing a gun wildly.

Several police cars and two paddy wagons were pelted with shots.

Detective Lieut. Maurice House said about two sticks of dynamite, possibly thrown from a car, ripped a crater two feet across and 18 inches deep at the front of the Shores residence.

BOMBING 'SENSELESS'

Shores said the bombing seemed as senseless to him as the one of Aug. 20 when extensive damage was inflicted on the other end of his house.

Today was the first day of classes for two Negro pupils whose enrolment Wednesday began a series of events climaxed by the blast and the ensuing clashes.

Three other Negro pupils were to register and begin classes today at two white high schools.

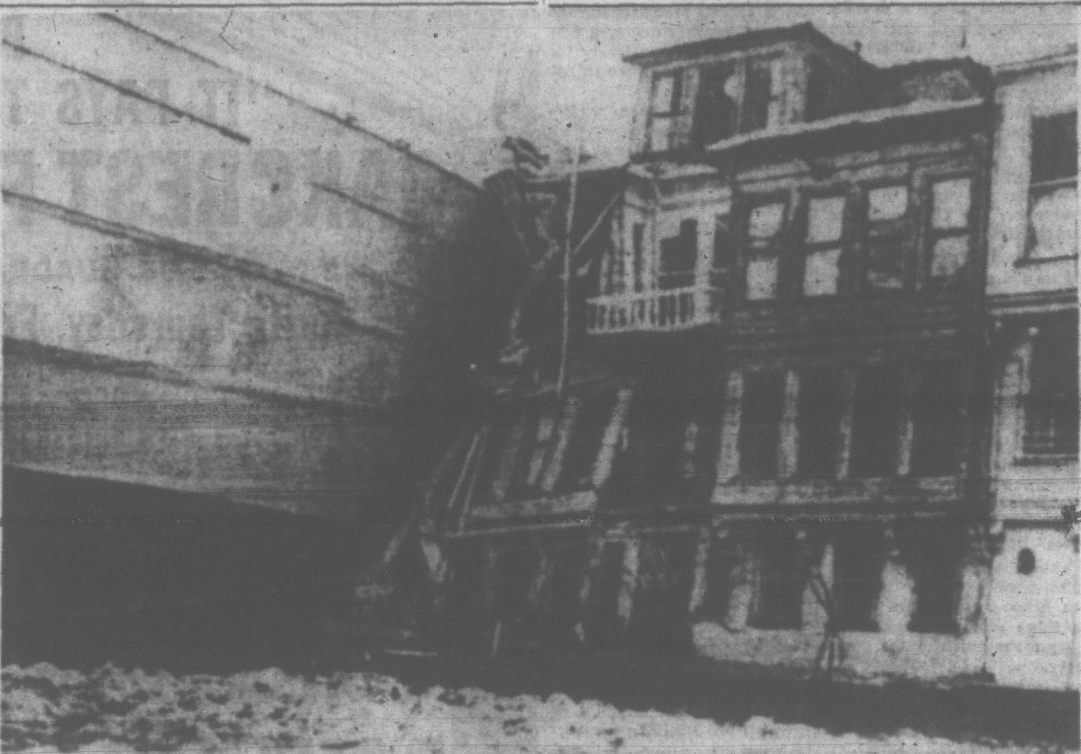

As the racial fires crackled, there were these developments:

1. Governor Wallace placed 500 to 600 national guardsmen on alert for possible duty in quelling troubles here.
2. About 600 state troopers were on standby in Birmingham but were not requested by local authorities to help keep order in Wednesday.

Real Drummed Out By National Socreds

'WHAT'S-HIS-NAME' GETS BENNETT NOD

Premier W. A. C. Bennett today fully endorsed Social Credit's national leader—though the name eluded him.

Asked to comment on the big Quebec split in the national party, Mr. Bennett said:

"I'm for making greater unity. Not disunity."

"What's-his-name was elected national leader at the national convention, and he's the national leader."

Prompted a newsman: "His name is Robert Thompson."

"That's right," beamed the premier.

He ducked a direct answer to whether he still felt that Real Caouette, who he at one time endorsed for the job, was the greatest Quebec politician since Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

'Social Credit Will Benefit'

EDMONTON (CP)—E. C. Manning, Social Credit premier of Alberta, said today the breakaway of Real Caouette and other Social Credit MPs from the national party "is in the interests of the Social Credit movement."

He said in an interview Caouette's new party—Le Ralliement des Creditistes—is "purely local" and is headed for political extinction.

The National Social Credit movement will benefit from being dissociated from Mr. Caouette's "irresponsible statements," he added.

OTTAWA—Quebec Social Credit leader Real Caouette and his supporters today were booted out of the national Socred party.

The action was taken by national Socred president Martin Kellin, who said in a statement issued by Social Credit headquarters here that ejection of "Le Ralliement des Creditistes" was forced on two grounds: rebellion and failure to pay affiliation fees.

The rebellion came into the open last weekend when Quebec Socreds led by Mr. Caouette, former deputy national leader, rejected Robert Thompson as their national leader in resolutions approved at their convention in Granby.

The failure to pay affiliation fees apparently has existed ever since the Quebec wing of the party was taken into the national Socred setup. All other provincial Socred groups, said Mr. Kellin, have paid up.

Will Support Liberal Government

Mr. Caouette indicated that his new group intends for the present to support the Liberal government of Prime Minister Pearson "in the interests of Canada and not against the interests of French Canadians."

"Eventually we will attempt to make this a national party and take it across Canada to protect the French-Canadians in every province," Mr. Caouette said following the four-hour hotel-room meeting.

He said his main difference with Mr. Thompson was the latter's "refusal to care anything about the French-Canadian point of view in national politics."

AFRAID

Mr. Caouette also said Mr. Thompson is afraid of being laughed at if he sticks too strongly to Social Credit doctrine. The political philosophy had found a response in Quebec and Mr. Caouette didn't get along with "those who are afraid."

Mr. Caouette said the six Quebec MPs who supported Mr. Thompson would suffer no retaliation.

Mr. Gregoire said the fact Mr. Caouette has captured a majority of the MPs means it now is "the official Social Credit party in Canada."

In his statement, Mr. Kellin said it was "apparent by the speeches and resolutions at the Granby convention of Le Ralliement des Creditistes as led by Mr. Caouette that Le Ralliement no longer desires affiliation with the Social Credit Association of Canada."

"This is underlined by the fact" Mr. Kellin continued, "that they have rejected the duly elected leader, Mr. Robert Thompson, who was con-

DISEASE CLAIMS CHILD AS EPIDEMIC SPREADS

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—One more child has died from gastro enteritis, and there is no definite sign the province's epidemic is letting up, a health department spokesman said today.

Chief Medical Health Officer Dr. David Severs said the single death from the intestinal disease during the week brought the toll for the year to 58. All were infants less than a year old.

Kidnapped S.A. Doctor Released

FRANCISTOWN (Reuters)—Dr. Kenneth Abrahams, a young physician kidnapped last month by South African police, arrived back in Bechuanaland by train today with his wife and three other political refugees.

The 26-year-old colored (mixed blood) physician was expected to join scores of other political refugees from South Africa here who are awaiting transport to Tanganyika.

Dr. Abrahams and his three companions were kidnapped by a masked cattleman and three other men who took them from Bechuanaland, handcuffed them and put them in a cell. After appearing before a magistrate at Gobabis in South-West Africa, they made a plane journey to Cape Town in South Africa.

South Africa denied responsibility for the abduction of the doctor, but after several court appearances, finally released him "in the interests of good neighbor relations."

Was Woman Hitch-Hiking When Killed?

Police Theory After Autopsy

A woman killed in a hit-and-run accident Wednesday may have been trying to hitch a ride from the car that hit her.

Saanich police chief Bert Pearson suggested the theory today, and issued an urgent appeal for the driver of the death car to give himself up.

He said that Mrs. Anna Neilson, 470 Thetis, may have got a ride from town to a point near where she was hit, and perhaps was trying for another at the time of the accident.

This theory would explain: Why she was hit in front, although presumably headed in the same direction as the car that struck her;

Why she was walking on the right side of the highway, instead of the left;

Why she was so close to the travelled portion of the road;

Why she was on the Trans-Canada Highway at all—a somewhat longer route to her home in Belmont Park.

MRS. ANNA NEILSON

Made No Attempt to Stop

The 39-year-old mother of five was almost cut in half by a car that hit her at great speed, and evidently made no attempt to stop—it left no skid marks.

Chief Pearson stressed that the driver, who probably panicked when he realized he had hit the woman, would fare better in court if he turned himself in.

Mrs. Neilson was probably killed at 12:38 a.m., the time at which the hands of her watch stopped, presumably from the impact.

Her body was thrown by the collision into a 20-foot ditch, between Tillicum and Burnside, where it was found by Corporal Bob Peterson of Saanich police when personal papers strewn along the roadside sparked a search.

Saanich police have discovered a motorist who saw Mrs. Neilson at 12:30, minutes before she died, walking along the gravel shoulder of the road about 200 feet east of Tillicum.

She was walking briskly, and was at that time on the left side of the road, facing the oncoming traffic.

Body Yielded Few Clues

Her body, when found, was so badly battered that it was unrecognizable, and police were not sure at first in what direction she had been walking.

An autopsy performed Wednesday morning indicated that she had been facing the car that hit her, that she had been almost sheared in half by a headlight fitting that struck her pelvic region, and that she died instantaneously.

Saanich detectives now know that the death car was painted white, and had a headlight fitting of the kind that is stock on a 1957 Mercury Montclair. Earlier the police thought a

Chevrolet or Pontiac was involved.

But Chief Pearson said today that the identification of the headlight does not necessarily identify the car, pointing out that customized "hot-rods" often have non-stock parts fitted to them.

A fragment of the headlight and a piece of chrome trim were found at the scene.

An inquest into the death will be held Saturday morning at 11 in the Thomson and Irving funeral home.

Identification of the body and medical evidence only will be presented at that time, Saanich police said today.

She Took Job Recently

Mrs. Neilson, who recently began work at the Colonial Inn as a waitress, met her husband after she quit work at 10 p.m. Tuesday.

They had a few drinks, went for something to eat, then split up due to a family argument. Mrs. Neilson kept the keys to the family car, and her husband went off for a nightcap by himself.

He later went home, expecting his wife to be there.

Saanich police found the car where it had been left, the keys still in the ignition.

Mrs. Neilson had about $40 in her purse, and why she did not drive the car home is still unknown, but Chief Pearson said the fact she had had a few drinks might have been a factor.

Korean Hero's Arrest Stirs Political Storm

SEOUL (AP)—The South Korean military regime's abrupt arrest of ailing ex-premier Yo-Chan Song, a hero of the Korean war, sent his political stock soaring today. One party named him as its candidate for the presidency and others rallied to his cause.

While Song remained in the dreaded Mapo prison, the Liberal Democratic party's central committee met in Seoul and unanimously nominated him to oppose strongman Gen. Chung Hee Park in the presidential election Oct. 15.

Many Koreans suspect Song's surprise arrest Wednesday was prompted by reports the Liberal Democrats intended to nominate him. The Liberal Democratic party was organized Tuesday as a breakaway movement from Park's Democratic Republican party.

In an unprecedented move, three major opposition parties merged and decided to select one candidate to oppose Park.

The 47-year-old retired lieutenant-general was arrested to await a military court-martial on old charges that he had illegally executed three soldiers in 1950 and newer charges that he had slandered the military government. Trial is Monday.

Quake Third Strongest

OTTAWA (CP)—An earthquake that rocked Baffin Bay in the Canadian Arctic Wednesday was the third strongest ever recorded in Canada.

Due to the remote location of the latest earthquake, between Baffin Island and Greenland, no damage was reported.

Construction Gains Continue

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

The Canadian construction industry continues to be a mainstay of the economy with contract awards for the first eight months of the year totalling $2,364,383,100 — over $204 million more than in the corresponding period last year.

The Southern MacLean build- ing reports show that the gain continued in August with contract awards of $319,737,600 or $39,846,200 more than in August last year.

Residential construction accounted for the largest part of the total, despite a slight decrease in August, with value for the eight months of $792,439,600. Business construction was just behind at $791,521,900 with industrial $188,672,600 and engineering $591,749,000.

During the first eight months of this year all regions of Canada except Ontario have shown construction gains over last year with the western total up $72,512,000 at $615,466,200.

While western pulp and paper expansion continues steadily, eastern firms continue to worry about over-expansion.

P. E. Roberts, executive vice-president of Abitibi Power and Paper Co. Ltd., says the outlook is for continued over-capacity in newsprint but that his company is counting on improved quality to maintain prices and sales.

The Abitibi long-term goal, however, is a plan where newsprint will be a smaller percentage of output. For this reason Abitibi plans still further expansion of its paper board products and fine paper operations. The company's board plant in Michigan recently expanded by 30 per cent. It is working at capacity and the company is considering further expansion in the U.S.

Mr. Roberts also announced that Abitibi will probably proceed with its plan to build a newsprint mill in India in partnership with the Agarwal family, Indian industrialists. There will probably be public and Indian government participation in the project and surveys of timber availability are now being carried out.

The bond market continues sluggish even with the Labor Day weekend out of the way as Canadian government financing needs overhang the market.

The question to be answered is how the government plans to handle the $223 million of refinancing. Investment dealers are uncertain whether the government will continue to remain in the short-term market for its refinancing and cash needs or will move into the medium and long-term market. Meantime trade continues light with prices drifting a little lower.

Record-Size Tuna Seiner For B.C. Firm

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Quebec shipbuilding yard has begun work on the Golden Scarab, a $1,500,000 Vancouver-owned tuna seiner which will be one of the largest of its kind in the world.

The vessel, owned by Scarab Fishing Ventures Ltd. of Vancouver, will operate chiefly in coastal waters off Mexico and Central America. It will be the largest fishing vessel ever built in Canada when it is completed in about 18 months.

The ship has been financed by a federal shipbuilding subsidy, the Industrial Development Bank and private capital.

Capt. Norman Ryall, who heads the fishing company, said the Quebec yard, George T. Davis and Sons Ltd., gained the contract to build the ship by submitting a lower bid than west coast firms.

The vessel will be 168 feet by 36-feet. Sufficient space will be left on the deck to allow for a scouting helicopter.

Arthur Mayse

Wishful thinking is not my specialty, and from this viewing post, it seems most unlikely that British Columbia Social Credit's Cinderella coach will turn back into a pumpkin after the September 30 ball.

By the same token... and feel free to remind me later if my guess proves wrong... I believe the Progressive Conservative attempt to wedge a toe in the glass slipper is foredoomed.

Not one seat do I give them in my scratch-pad handicap, and this in spite of Davie Fulton's heavily-publicized bid to oust Highway Minister Gagliardi from his Kamloops riding. The line between good generalship and fatal rashness is narrow; and to my mind, our Conservatives have merely given us yet another example of the political coup that doesn't come off.

The fact that Mr. Fulton was a federal choice, I see as a detriment rather than an aid to his chances of landing a provincial seat, and his probable fate a drop into a political limbo from which he may not emerge for a good few years.

The choice of Kamloops was sheer folly, and in any riding save South Okanagan, Davie Fulton's prospects might have been better.

So, studying the tea-leaf pattern, I give the Progressive Conservatives no seats in our new Provincial Legislature, and in spite of Opposition Leader Strachan's shrewd campaign, see the NDP position as likely to remain virtually unchanged. The New Democratic Party, has its strongholds, and these it will probably retain. At worst, I suggest, a one-seat loss, and at best a two-seat gain.

We come now to our little Liberal band, and if I weren't saving my betting money for Sandown, there are two Liberal noses on which I'd place a modest wager.

The first belongs to Mike Griffin, whose nomination in Victoria City seems assured.

Politically, I think Mr. Griffin is now ready for a shot at the provincial House. His term as alderman was good schooling, and while not all of his notions jell, he has shown that he can be counted upon to make himself heard.

A group as small as our Liberal bloc—five members in the last assembly—can't afford back benchers. It was lucky in Dr. Pat McGeer, its last acquisition, and Mr. Griffin would be a useful gain for the team.

Vancouver's vigorous Mayor Rathie is the other Liberal contender to watch. Admittedly, he goes in against strong competition—so formidable, in fact, that here we're betting on a longshot. Still, his candidacy makes a great deal more sense to me than does Davie Fulton's, and it wouldn't surprise me to see Mr. Rathie duplicate the McGeer feat of confounding the Socreds in a key riding.

But as I pointed out at the start of this prognostication, it would be an unrealistic turning away from the evidence to expect any drastic change in British Columbia's overall, long-range political picture.

For better or worse, I'm convinced we'll have our brilliantly enigmatic Premier William Andrew Cecil Bennett with us for a long time to come.

This hurts, since I personally remain cool toward Social Credit and most of its works. But the simple fact is that no rival party shows promise of fielding a leader of Mr. Bennett's stature.

Nor does his own party. Without him at its head, I suspect that the B.C. version of this never-explained mystique which calls itself Social Credit would crumble no less abruptly than it rose from the ashes of the wartime Liberal-Conservative coalition.

The issue in this token election is not Medicare, now in one form or other inevitable for our province, or the near-catastrophic state of federal Social Credit.

It is, simply, whether Mr. Bennett rates a vote of confidence... and deserve it or not, I predict Mr. Bennett will receive it.

VICTORIA'S FIRST SUMMER FESTIVAL

Four Weeks of Culture in 1964 Program

ALLAN PURDY... programmer

Victorians and summer visitors will be able to enjoy four weeks of music and drama next summer in the capital's first summer festival.

The Festival Theatre Society's presentation and launching of its campaign for funds took place at the Imperial Inn Wednesday evening before an invited group representing city, business, press and communications media.

The Festival Theatre Society, now formulating plans for the festival, hopes it will become an annual event.

Minimum cost of the planned high-standard production line-up is $43,700, and all profits will be plowed back into improvement and extension of succeeding festivals.

Society president Mrs. Audrey Johnson said the festival could be an answer to the complaint that summer visitors do not stay in the city more than a day.

"As our festival's reputation grows—as grow it will—in itself will be the means of attracting visitors from all parts of the North American continent," she said.

A 20-piece orchestra under the direction of James M. Gayler will be formed and go into rehearsal this year.

With a tentative opening date in July or August, the opening production will probably be Strauss' comic opera "Die Fledermaus."

Allan Purdy, program coordinator and administrator, said there would be no extravagance, but "the emphasis will be upon fine acting and excellent costumes."

Other productions considered include a "Peter and the Wolf" type presentation for children, possible lunch-hour concerts and a mysteriously titled surprise package "Vintage '99," described by Mr. Purdy as "a type of musical comedy."

Mrs. Johnson said the festival is being conceived in a flexible form with a view to the eventual emergence of an individuality that will make it unique on the North American continent. She sees more "classical or avant garde events as demand and funds warrant" in the future.

LOST LAST HOUR PUZZLES POLICE

What happened during

George Down's last hour? City detectives have traced the movements of the murdered 17-year-old delivery boy to 12:20 a.m. of Aug. 30, an hour before he was bludgeoned to death in the Hudson's Bay parkade.

Now they are anxious to interview anyone who saw Down on the night of Aug. 29 or the early morning of Aug. 30—particularly during that critical hour after 12:20.

They want to talk with anyone who has any knowledge of what Down might have been doing in that time.

Detective Inspector Charles Webb emphasized today that anyone volunteering information will be protected, and that confidences will be respected.

Police Chief J. F. Gregory, who took office this week in the midst of the investigation, told The Times that every available man has been assigned to the case. Down was last seen near the city hall, and he said at that time that he was going to the Hudson's Bay Co. There the trail ends.

DID YOU SEE this youth last Thursday night or Friday morning? At request of city police the Times is reprinting the picture of Gordon Down, victim of a brutal slaying in the Hudson Bay Co. parkade.

Police, facing almost a blank wall in their enquiries, are hoping someone can come forward with a clue.

Logging Firm's Slash Fire Out of Control

Fire is racing unchecked across 500 acres of forest in the Muir Creek area this afternoon.

The blaze started Wednesday as a controlled burn, but high winds at 4 p.m. sent it leaping across a 264-yard break into slash and snags. It is on property of the Canadian Puget Sound Lumber and Timber Company.

With smoke blurring the sinking sun and flames lighting the sky over Victoria, company men fought through the night over a 200-acre area.

However, the fire sped on and 60 company men are now working with heavy equipment around the devastated area.

A water bomber has been called in, and B.C. Forest Service rangers are on the spot. No forest service firefighters have been called in yet.

'Socreds Will Wipe Out All But a Few NDPs'

A Socred sweep that would leave only a handful of New Democrats in opposition was today's provincial election prediction by Premier W. A. C. Bennett.

"The NDP will lose seats. The Liberals and Conservatives will elect no members," Mr. Bennett said.

He said Social Credit would defeat Liberal Alan Macfarlane in Oak Bay, Liberal leader Ray Perrault in North Vancouver, Harry McKay in Fernie, and Vancouver Mayor William Rathie in Point Grey.

He described the Liberals and Tories as only "opinion parties" in the current election.

TWO-WAY FIGHT

"The issue in this election is genuine free enterprise of the Social Credit party against the socialist NDP," he said.

This is the issue on which he fought the 1960 election.

Mr. Bennett said he still is not ready to release the Social Credit election Manifesto, promised two weeks ago to outline a new seven-year program.

"I'll release it as I go in my speeches. The final manifesto will be released later," he said.

The premier will head for his Kelowna home today to spend his 63rd birthday Friday with his family.

His South Okanagan nomination convention is Saturday.

Mr. Bennett said he will make his first campaign journey next week, leaving Vancouver on a PGE train Tuesday.

He will make a "non-partisan" speech to the Union of B.C. Municipalities at Dawson Creek, Sept. 12, then open his campaign proper at Fort St. John on Friday the 13th.

On Sept. 16, he will address a meeting at Quesnel.

Then he will return to the coast by PGE to speak Sept. 15 in West Vancouver.

He will then spend some time campaigning in the lower mainland area. Details of this and later plans are not prepared, Mr. Bennett said.

Mr. Bennett said Social Credit does not need a long campaign to win the election Sept. 30.

"I believe the best campaign is what you've done over the years."

"It doesn't take a long period to tell the story. Our story of course will be what we plan for the next seven years."

Mr. Bennett said he was "disappointed" but not surprised that former legislative speaker Hugh Shantz was not running again for Social Credit.

Hope Does Scene 'Road to Island'

Comedian Bob Hope is enjoying "triple exposure" in the Vancouver Island area this week.

His newest movie, "Call Me Bwana," is playing at a local theatre.

His best-selling book, "I Owe Russia $1200," is doing a brisk business on downtown stalls. (He attended an autographing party in Vancouver earlier this week.)

And Bob, with his family, is on a combined fishing-golfing holiday near Campbell River. As he did a year ago, Hope is travelling in the private yacht of Max Bell, chairman of FP newspapers.

STAMPED CALGARY

(A few weeks ago, Hope responded to an invitation from Bell to act as Grand Marshall of the Calgary Stampede, flying in from California for a one-day appearance.)

With Hope on his current junket are his daughters Linda, 24, Nora, 17, and son Kelly, 16.

Linda wants to be a film director. Nora is bent on a career in nursing. Son Kelly is in a parochial school in California and hasn't yet decided on a career.

Linda told Vancouver reporters, with pride, that her father will soon go to Washington, D.C., to receive a medal of merit.

"Only two other entertainers have received it," she said.

Hope will cruise the waters off Vancouver Island, looking for the big salmon—at April Point and Stuart Island.

But Victoria golfers are bracing themselves for a drop in visit from the star, who plays in the high 70s and had a game last year with pro Laurie Carroll.

Given Break, Muffs Chance, Goes to Jail

A Victoria man who won a "break" from a police officer and threw it away within the hour was sent to jail today for 41 days.

Armand De Roche, 1335 Stanley Avenue, was sentenced to 21 days for impaired driving and a further 20 days for driving while his licence was suspended.

Magistrate William Ostler, who levied the consecutive sentences after De Roche pleaded guilty to both charges in Saanich court, said his actions were "incredible."

Const. William Chisholm testified he stopped De Roche at 12:25 this morning after seeing his car weaving north on Douglas.

The officer testified De Roche appeared impaired but pleaded for a break, claiming he had never driven in that condition before, had four children and might lose his job.

Const. Chisholm sent him home in a taxi and another police officer drove De Roche's car home.

ELECTION NOTEBOOK

Premier Will Let Any Party Quote From His Books

Hundreds of copies of government publications printed at public expense are being handed out by Social Credit election candidates.

But, says Premier Bennett, he is willing to hand out the booklets to any political party for election use.

The books are the 1963 budget speech and the midsummer economic review of provincial resources.

Four cartons of budgets have been shipped from the premier's office to Vancouver Socred headquarters. Saanich Socred candidate John Tisdalle has distributed several cartons of economic reviews among campaign workers, telling them to go door-to-door and give them to voters.

The books are printed by the Queen's Printer. An official said they could only be distributed through the finance department. A finance official said they can only be ordered by the premier.

The premier says: "They are available to anybody who wants them, any party that wants them—as long as the supply is available. This is all factual stuff, not political," he said. "It is the work of accountants and civil servants. Sure, we are anxious for every member of the public to know these things about their province."

He said Mr. Tisdalle got some copies that were "left over in my office."

"But any former MLA or any candidate can get any amount of them. This is not party literature."

What ever happened to all those impressive Conservative candidates that were being lined up here?

In Esquimalt Wednesday night the nominating convention collapsed without one.

In Victoria, Oak Bay and Saanich not a single name has been advanced. Leader Davie Fulton made a special trip to line them up, held interviews with a number of prominent local men, but failed to come up with any commitments.

Former members of two other parties are helping the Socreds campaign in Oak Bay against Liberal Alan Macfarlane. One-time Tory candidate Justin Harbord is managing the campaign for Dr. Charles Ennals, and ex-Liberal Geoffrey Ellis is assistant manager.

The Socreds have run into a squall in Burnaby, where they had hoped to win a seat from the NDP.

Unsuccessful nominee Dr. H. H. Beyerstein demanded a new nominating convention, charging many delegates were denied a vote. "The meeting ended in a shambles, some were on the verge of fist-fights," he said.

The candidates so far are James Mason and Mrs. Dorothy Munick.

A Lion is in the field for the Socreds in North Vancouver.

Herb Capozzi, general manager of the B.C. Lions football team, says he'll seek the nomination Tuesday to tackle Liberals Ray Perrault and Gordon Gibson, previous holders of the two seats there.

The campaign chests are bare and the treasure hunt is on for funds to fight the election campaign.

NDP secretary Ernest Hall says his party will seek funds from trade unions and other provinces after the "terrible drain" of two federal elections and recent B.C. byelections. Oak Bay Socreds are campaigning on a pay-as-you-go basis because the local association is still in debt, according to treasurer James Audain.

More nominations: Frank Becker, Liberal, North Okanagan; Ken Rutherford, NDP, Fort George; Donald Brothers, Socred, Rossland Trail; Jack Luckhurst, Conservative, Alberni; Dr. John Norris (son of the judge) and Fred Vulliamy, NDP, Vancouver Centre; Art Phillips, Mayor William Rathie and Dr. Pat McGeer, Liberal, Vancouver; Point Grey; Mrs. Isobel Potthecary, NDP, North Okanagan; Felix Kohnke, Liberal, Cariboo; Burt Campbell, Socred, Kaslo-Slocan; Alex Matthew and Education Minister Leslie Peterson, Socred, Vancouver Centre.

Tonight's local nominating conventions: Victoria Socreds, 8 p.m., Club Sirocco; Esquimalt Liberals, 8 p.m., Buffalo Hall, Langford; Victoria New Democrats, 8 p.m., Woodsworth Hall; Esquimalt Socreds, 8 p.m., Colwood Community Hall.

TRAFFIC DEATH

Her body, when found, was so badly battered that it was unrecognizable, and police were not sure at first in what direction she had been walking.

An autopsy performed Wednesday morning indicated that she had been facing the car that hit her, that she had been almost sheered in half by a headlight fitting that struck her pelvic region, and that she died instantaneously.

Saanich detectives now know that the death car was painted white, and had a headlight fitting of the kind that is stock on a 1957 Mercury Montclair. Earlier the police thought a Chevrolet or Pontiac was involved.

But Chief Pearson said to day that the identification of the headlight does not necessarily identify the car, pointing out that customized "hot-rods" often have non-stock parts fitted to them.

A fragment of the headlight and a piece of chrome trim were found at the scene.

An inquest into the death will be held Saturday morning at 11 in the Thomson and Irvine funeral home.

Identification of the body and medical evidence only will be presented at that time, Saanich police said today.

Mrs. Neilson, who recently began work at the Colonial Inn as a waitress, met her husband after she quit work at 10 p.m. Tuesday.

They had a few drinks, went for something to eat, then split up due to a family argument. Mrs. Neilson kept the keys to the family car, and her husband drove off for a nightcap by himself.

He later went home, expecting his wife to be there.

Saanich police found the car where it had been left, the keys still in the ignition.

Mrs. Neilson had about $40 in her purse, and why she did not drive the car home is still unknown, but Chief Pearson said the fact she had had a few drinks might have been a factor.

Common Names Urged

OTTAWA (CP)—The United Nations will be asked to set up a committee of experts to devise universal names for space ships, parts of planets and other features of outer space, it was announced today.

Prof. Jaroslav B. Rudnyckij of the University of Manitoba, who is in Ottawa to attend a meeting of the royal commission on biculturalism, said in a statement that the request will be made by the International Congress of Onomastic Sciences.

The congress, which endeavors to standardize names for new scientific discoveries, passed a resolution to that effect at its meeting last week in Amsterdam.

The congress will ask all countries exploring outer space to agree on common names for their discoveries, without applying English, Russian, Japanese and other names to the same objects.

The proposal was put forward by Canadian and American delegates at the scientific congress. The Canadian delegation comprised Prof. Rudnyckij, Prof. O. Starchuk and Prof. Y. Slavutych of the University of Alberta.

Quake Third Strongest

OTTAWA (CP)—An earthquake that rocked Baffin Bay in the Canadian Arctic Wednesday was the third strongest ever recorded in Canada.

Due to the remote location of the latest earthquake, between Baffin Island and Greenland, no damage was reported.

GHANA RAPS RACE RATE IN U.S.

ACCRA, Ghana (Reuters)—A Ghanaian newspaper has attacked Alabama's Governor George C. Wallace for "moral behavior" in the state's integration crisis.

The newspaper Daily Graphic says in an editorial that it was difficult to differentiate "color hate in the United States from apartheid in South Africa or the murderous repression in Portuguese territories."

Because American Negroes demonstrate against social injustice, the paper said, they "are daily dog-bitten, tear-gassed, truncheoned and bloodily bludgeoned by the police."

first on the scene, said he was felled by a brick thrown by Negroes.

One Negro man ran out on a porch and began firing a gun wildly.

Several police cars and two paddy wagons were pelted with shots.

Detective Lieut. Maurice House said about two sticks of dynamite, possibly thrown from a car, ripped a crater two feet across and 18 inches deep at the front of the Shores residence.

BOMBING 'SENSELESS'

Shores said the bombing seemed as senseless to him as the one of Aug. 20 when extensive damage was inflicted on the other end of his house.

Today was the first day of classes for two Negro pupils whose enrolment Wednesday began a series of events climaxed by the blast and the ensuing clashes.

Three other Negro pupils were to register and begin classes today at two white high schools.

As the racial fires crackled, there were these developments:

1. Governor Wallace placed 500 to 600 national guardsmen on alert for possible duty in quelling troubles here.

2. About 200 state troopers were on standby in Birmingham but were not requested by local authorities to help keep order in Wednesday night's outbreak and disorders during the day when white segregationists demonstrated.

3. Six white parents asked a federal judge for an injunction against integration of the schools because of violence. District Judge Walter P. Gwin of nearby Tuscaloosa took the petition under advisement. Wallace said his office helped prepare the suit.

4. In Huntsville, Ala., 12 white children quietly segregated a previously Negro school operated by the Roman Catholic church. It was the first known integration of an elementary school in Alabama.

5. In Washington, Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy met with aides for several strategy sessions. A justice department spokesman said FBI agents and other department personnel already on the scene in Birmingham would be made available to local authorities if requested.

B. Guiana Relaxes

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (CP)—The state of emergency imposed May 8 on British Guiana in the wake of violence in a general strike was lifted Wednesday by Governor Sir Ralph Grey. The state of emergency was lifted 60 days after the strike ended. It had been imposed on the strike's 19th day.

Potential Peril Says Goldwater

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator Barry Goldwater (Rep., Ariz.) demanded today a formal reservation postponing the effectiveness of the limited nuclear test-ban treaty until the Soviets removed their military forces from Cuba.

Goldwater, regarded as a potential candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, said he would offer such a reservation after the Senate takes up the treaty next week.

If the Senate adopts a formal reservation, it might require renegotiation of the treaty. The Senate foreign relations committee voted 16 to 1 last week to recommend ratification without any reservation.

POTENTIAL PERIL

In a speech prepared for the Senate, Goldwater declared that as it now stands, the treaty "is a potential peril to peace rather than a step toward it."

Goldwater told his colleagues: "The reservation in which I am interested and which I shall introduce and press for as a reasonable condition for acceptance of the treaty in essence is this:

"That the effectiveness of the treaty be deferred until the U.S.S.R. has removed all nuclear weapons, all weapons capable of carrying nuclear warheads, and all military-technical personnel from Cuba and until arrangements have been made for international inspection within Cuba to determine and confirm such removal."

He refused to give details, saying "everything has been reported by our radio and newspapers."

Peking radio said Wednesday night more than 20 Soviet citizens picketed the Embassy Monday, shaking their fists and chanting:

"We do not want to die," "shame on the Chinese" and "shame, shame, shame."

The Embassy spokesman said he did not know whether a protest would be made to the Soviet foreign ministry.

Last June, several Russians smashed an Embassy glass display case showing Soviet gaudy pictures from China.

The smashing signalled a sharp deterioration of Soviet-Chinese relations. At the same time, three Chinese diplomats were expelled from the Soviet Union for distributing "anti-Soviet" literature.

Peking radio said Monday's demonstrators also argued with Embassy personnel, asking them why China refuses to sign the nuclear test ban treaty.

There has been no mention in the Soviet press of the demonstration.
